Trudeau Furious

Ad Inspires Cold Anger

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. (Special)—Prime Minister Trudeau Thursday showed cold anger over a Tory-paid newspaper advertisement claiming that a Liberal vote was a vote for socialism and anti-Christian morality.

Trudeau was shown the advertisement, in a local paper, as he entered the arena here for a rally.

It was the second time that a political advertisement had become an issue in the campaign.

Last week, Conservative leader Robert Stanfield called on Trudeau to repudiate a Liberal-paid newspaper ad claiming that the Tories stand for two nations and special status for Quebec.

At the Edmundston meeting Trudeau read an extract from a local paper, from a full-page advertisement labelled a statement of political views of Jean-Maurice Simard, the Tory candidate in Madawaska-Victoria.

The advertisement refers to Trudeau's Criminal Code bill, which would amend the law on divorce, abortion and homosexuality.

NDP Standing For 'Genuine' Unity—Douglas

MONTREAL (CP)—The New Democratic Party is the one that stands for "genuine national unity" in Canada, Leader T. C. Douglas said at a rally Thursday night.

He accused Prime Minister Trudeau of "dividing this country as it has not been divided for a long time."

He said the NDP would bring the country a real national unity founded on

B.C. Won't Lead Nurses 'by Ear'

KIMBERLEY (CP)—Premier Bennett said Thursday the provincial government will not automatically lead British Columbia nurses "by the ear" back to work if they go on strike.

Mr. Bennett's statement followed a strong hint by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson that the new Mediation Commission Act would be used to break any strike by the nurses.

Highway Landing in Zero Visibility

PORT HAWKESBURY, N.S. (CP)—Robert Stanfield took his life in his hands Thursday to make a brief public appearance in the only Nova Scotia territory to go Liberal in the 1965 federal election.

The light plane which carried the Conservative leader here from Halifax landed on an open section of the Trans-Canada highway at nearby Harve Boucher.

The landing area was supposed to be marked by RCMP patrol cars, but pilot Charlie Barton couldn't find the area in the mist and rain that reduced visibility to almost zero. He and the other five occupants of the twin-engine Piper Aztec flew over the Canso Strait area for 30 minutes, looking for a break in the weather.

The pilot spied a closed section of the highway and touched down at the crest of a steep hill at 85 miles an hour. He had to fight the controls to keep the plane from sliding off the road into a six-foot ditch before coming to a stop half-way down the 35-degree grade. There were power lines overhead.

Mounties appeared a few minutes later in a patrol car and said: "You landed in the wrong place."

The flight was harrowing all the way from Halifax. Visibility was zero as blinding sheets of rain lashed against the windshield. Tail winds bumped the light aircraft about.

Through it all, Stanfield sat calmly in the rear of the six-seater, with Flora MacDonald, an aide, Julian Porter, another aide, news photographer Colin Price and a Canadian Press reporter also were on board.

The crowd that had been waiting at a high school here for almost two hours gave Stanfield a resounding cheer when he arrived by car. Organizers estimated that perhaps 5,000 persons were in the auditorium and the adjoining school. There were no seats and at least 2,000 were standing before the stage.

The weather improved and the flight back to Dartmouth, N.S. for an evening rally was without incident.

Port Hawkesbury is in Cape Breton Highlands-Canso riding, part of which was represented in the last parliament by Heddie Minister MacEachen. It and a neighboring riding were the only Nova Scotia seats to go Liberal in 1965.

Seaway Shipping Locked Up

MONTREAL (CP)—Inter-lake shipping in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway system came to a virtual standstill Thursday in advance of a strike of 1,200 seaway workers scheduled for 8 a.m. today.

The locks at Sault Ste. Marie linking Lake Superior and Lake Huron and the Welland Canal linking Lake Ontario and Lake Erie closed to traffic on orders of the seaway authority.

Earlier in the day, the eastern section of the seaway between Montreal and Lake Ontario was closed to new traffic. Only ships already in the section—from the Iroquois locks at the eastern end of Lake Ontario to the St. Lambert locks at Montreal—were permitted to move out in either direction.

VESSELS TRAPPED

When the locks closed to new traffic, 16 ocean-going ships and 14 inland vessels were downbound to Montreal and seven ocean-going and eight inland were upbound for Lake Ontario.

Above the Iroquois Jocks 38 other ocean-going vessels were trapped for the duration of the strike.

William J. Smith, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railways, Transport and General Workers, which represents the 1,200 workers, said the position taken by the government had made further negotiation hopeless.

CONTRACT REFUSED

The union had to abide by a vote of its membership refusing the seaway authority's contract offer based on the majority report of a federal conciliation board.

The report recommended two six-per-cent increases compounded over a two-year period. The union was seeking two increases totalling 18 per cent in a two-year contract.

Basic labour rate now is $2.77 an hour and the average hourly wage of the 1,200 workers is $3.10.

TRudeau WITH SEAWAY

Prime Minister Trudeau has told the union he considers the Seaway offer "fair and reasonable."

A major complaint by the seaway workers is that their wages do not compare with those of employees of the United States St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation—who do not have the right to strike.

Montreal (CP)—Negotiations between the Canadian Marine Officers Union and the Canadian Lake Carriers Association have broken off, it was announced Thursday.

The dispute poses another strike threat to Canada's troubled shipping industry.

Gilbert Gauthier, union president, told a news conference that 1,200 marine officers—engineers on some 200 Canadian tankers—could be on strike by mid-July.

Song Fans Know Blow-Away Verse

THAT POEM: The verse of yesterday titled There Was a Whale is better known as a song.

First caller was Denye Geddes who explained that the whale was sung by Burl Ives on one of his records.

The version blown into the yard of Bill Stavdal has undergone some minor changes. The name of the whale has been changed to Seana from the original Sally, the location has been changed from San Francisco to Vancouver and in the last verse it should read stomp on rather than sit on your hat.

The song has also been recorded by American poet Carl Sandburg who has a different version from that of Burl Ives.

Another caller, Mrs. R. F. Jeune, recalled hearing the Ives version regularly on Bill Bellman's CBC radio show Man and His Music about 10 years ago.

Mrs. Jeune said the program featured a comic song around noon to encourage children to sit down for lunch. The nonsense songs were a delight to the preschoolers.

What it all boils down to is that it's worth reading bits of paper blown into your yard.

Perhaps there is something of local interest that could inspire some light verse. If anyone has anything in mind send it in to brighten the day.

BACK AGAIN: Interest quickened toward the end of Roar of the Grespiant so Robert Price is bringing it back to the McPherson Playhouse for shows tonight and Saturday.

The very funny musical stars Harry Hill, Owen Foran and Gina LeFeuvre.

Mr. Price says his company will holiday for the summer but expects to offer a season of six or seven shows starting in the fall.

He has narrowed selection down to 14 possible shows and hopes to include at least one musical.

ACTION NEEDED: The Jaycees took over the Emily Carr home on Government Street after a deal was made with David Gross.

The problem now is that the place looks a bit of a mess and the garden especially needs a clean-up job.

Perhaps the garden club people who helped out at one time could be induced to give the grounds a spruce up.

BIG DAY AHEAD: It could be a big day-a-week from Saturday for all who enjoy loves, happenings or be-ins.

Young and old alike are invited to a gathering titled Community Festival in Beacon Hill Park picnic area. It starts at 1 p.m.

An authority on the event, Charles Barber, says come with a flower and enough food for yourself and one other person.

Permission for the event was given by the city. Music will be provided by West Weary Blues, Blues by Five.

welcome when he arrived at the arena. Two party stalwarts put him on their shoulders and carried him to the platform as the band blared March tunes. □

But he had trouble overriding the background noise when he started to speak.

He said a few words in French then started in English. It was difficult to hear him against the loud buzz of background noise.

Robert Cliche, the party's Quebec leader who is running in Montreal Duvernay, got a better grip on the crowd when he spoke in French after Mr. Douglas.

Both men stressed that only the NDP believes in a government operated for the benefit of the average Canadian.

They said the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties don't have the freedom to do things for the common people because they are dependent on campaign contributions from the financial establishment.

Douglas arrived in Montreal after a flight from Winnipeg. He leaves today to go back to his home riding in Vancouver to await the election results.

It has been reported since that the union rejected 20 cents on a two-year basis.

Infant Twins Die in Pool

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. (AP)—The infant twin daughters of heavyweight wrestler Buddy (Killer) Austin drowned in the family swimming pool. The 15-month-old twins, Sandra and Christina, were pulled from the pool by their 11-year-old brother Kevin. Authorities said the infant girls apparently had left the house through an open sliding glass door and fallen into the pool while playing.

U.S. Senate Vote Next

House Clamps Rifle Controls

WASHINGTON (CPA) — The House of Representatives on Tuesday voted to outlaw mail-order sales of shotguns and rifles and to clamp tight controls on the sale of all ammunition.

Responding to the national outcry for gun controls following the assassination of Senator Robert F. Kennedy, the committee voted 29 to 6 in favor of the bill.

Only last week it was deadlocked 16-to-16 on the same measure and never before has it been able to muster a majority for such a bill.

SENATE BODY

The Senate judiciary committee also was scheduled to act on the legislation Thursday but postponed its vote until next Thursday because several senators were absent.

The House committee acted about 15 hours after President Johnson signed into law an anti-crime bill containing a ban against mail-order sales of handguns and urged Congress to extend the prohibition to shotguns and rifles.

BIG SWITCH

All 15 committee Republicans voted for the bill. Last week only two supported it. The six votes against it were cast by Southern Democrats.

Besides banning mail-order sales of rifles and shotguns, the bill would prohibit their purchase by anyone who is not a resident of the state in which the sale is made, or anyone under 18. The newly-enacted handgun provisions are similar except that no one under 21 can buy them.

Clumsy Tactics

NO DOUBT BRITISH COLUMBIA shipyards and workers will welcome the announcement of an estimated $6,000,000 contract for their restricted bidding.

Neither is there any doubt that the public will perceive precisely the motive of the federal government in reversing its policy at this particular time.

Mr. George Chatterton, the Conservative candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich, calls it "the most blatant attempt at political bribery."

It is the sort of vote-catching manoeuvre that belongs to another, less sophisticated age, when such obvious devices were common if not accepted practice.

The Liberal government terminated a policy by which the West Coast cost differential was offset in federal shipbuilding contracts and it ended the system of regional orders which had made it possible for Pacific yards to get a share of the national business. The prime minister was warned that such a policy would be ruinous for the industry, and the closing of the Victoria Machinery Depot yard was only one instance of the resulting distress.

But at this politically propitious moment, barely a week before an election, the government has been smitten with remorse.

A contract for replacement of the ancient lighthouse tender Estevan was long overdue. She has been laboring in coastal waters since 1912. What better time than now to announce it, particularly after the demonstrations of the out-of-work shipyard hands at recent political rallies?

Of course it must be a contract restricted to bids from B.C. yards alone; otherwise it would be meaningless.

Moreover, to gain every ounce of political advantage, the minister of transport, Mr. Paul Hellyer, allowed the announcement of the $6,000,000 plus to be made simultaneously by Liberal candidates, Mr. David Anderson in Esquimalt-Saanich, and Mr. Jack Davis in Capilano.

The whole manoeuvre is singularly lacking in skill and finesse.

Expressing his delight at the guaranteed contract, Mr. Anderson said West Coast shipbuilders "should modify their plants to be competitive with eastern yards." He implies that the fault lies with management for a lack of contracts, when he must know perfectly well that the higher wages and higher cost of materials make it impossible for Pacific yards to bid with any hope of success without some form of subsidy.

As for efficiency, B.C. shipbuilding facilities are the equal of any in Canada and the record shows that in naval construction here the man-hour requirement has been consistently lower than that on the Atlantic seaboard.

The Estevan replacement contract, we are warned, will be the last under the system of regional guarantee. But that, of course, will depend upon what party forms the next government in Ottawa.

Threat to the Lords

THE BRITISH HOUSE OF LORDS—like the Canadian Senate—has been subjected to considerable public and parliamentary criticism for many years. But though in the past its detractors were by no means restricted to any one particular political party in the United Kingdom, the present Labor government now appears ready to initiate a policy aimed not at its further reform but rather its complete destruction.

The Upper House, as it stands today, is very restricted in its powers. Though all bills introduced in the Commons pass through the Lords, they cannot prevent a bill insisted upon by the Commons finally becoming law. In the normal course of events, they either accept a bill from the Commons and return it unchanged, or they revise and improve it by amendments and return it for the consideration of the other House, which frequently agrees to the amendments made.

The Lords cannot require the Commons to agree on amendments, nor can they delay a bill indefinitely. These limitations on the powers of the Lords are based on the belief that the chief value of the Upper House, which is a non-elected assembly, lies in bringing the wide experience of its members into the legislative process, not in thwarting the elected House. In other words, proceedings in the House of Lords give time for further reflection, and often elicit new and useful points of view.

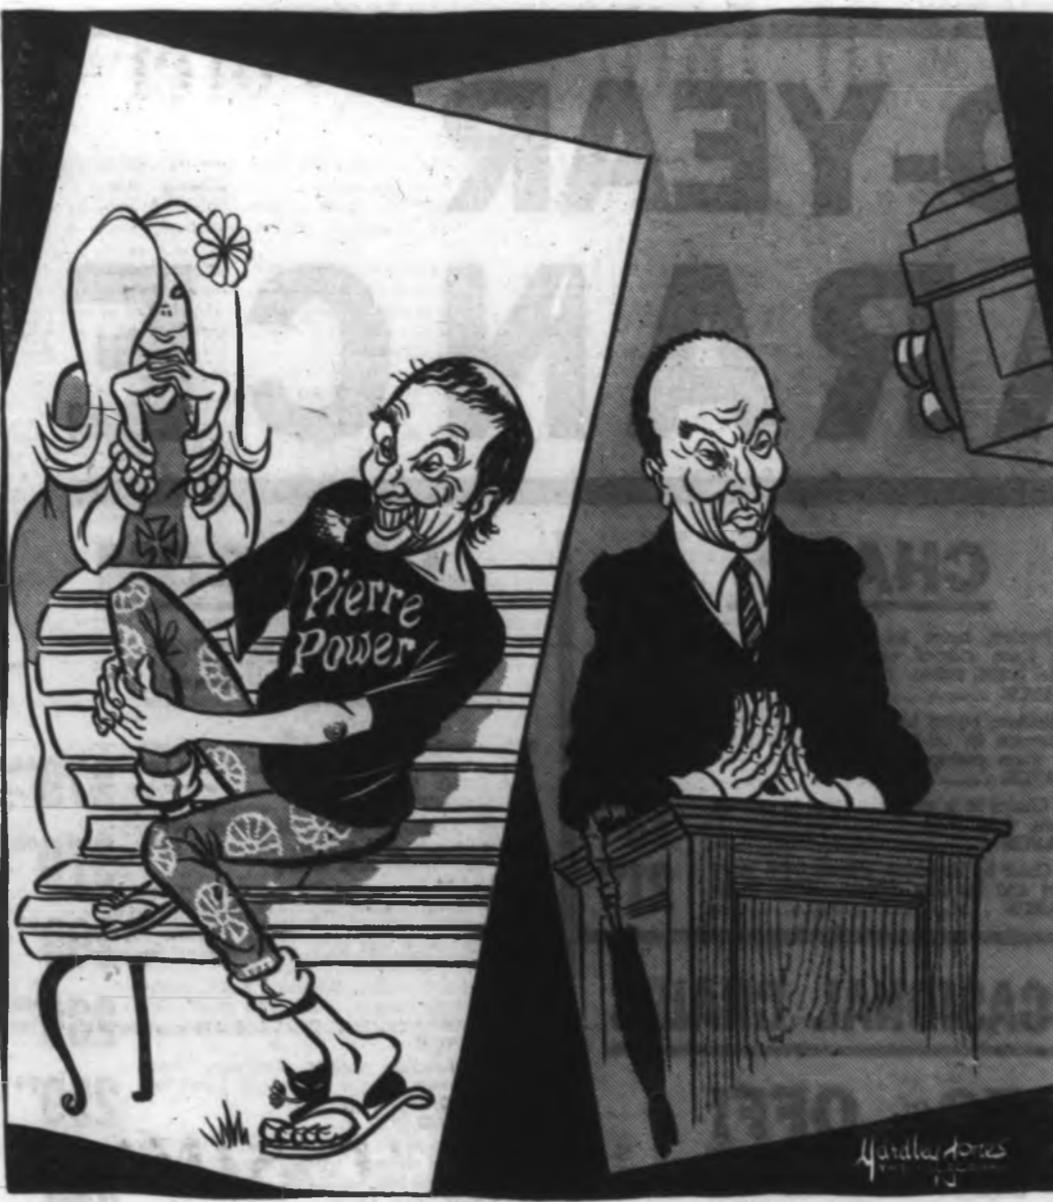

Taking these facts into consideration it was an extraordinary course of action taken by the Labor government Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Roy Jenkins, to threaten the House of Lords with extinction if it did not pass the government order extending sanctions against Rhodesia.

The Lords, understandably infuriated at this unprecedented attack upon them even before they had debated the subject, defied Mr. Jenkins and rejected the order.

The London Times comments: "Mr. Jenkins exaggerates the enormity of a refusal by the Lords to pass the order extending sanctions against Rhodesia. The practical effect of an adverse vote would be that the order would expire on July 8. The order but not the policy would be lost, for the policy could be reinstated in a new order which would have to be debated and voted upon again. If at that stage the Lords repeated their performance, if they became as it were persistent offenders, Mr. Jenkins' sense of outrage would be better founded. For a first offence veiled threats of capital sentence are disproportionate."

Prime Minister Harold Wilson has hardly bettered the situation by now deciding to break off talks with the Opposition about reforming the Upper House to proceed alone with legislation to reorganize—or perhaps abolish—it in accordance with the Labor government's ideas.

In his continuing battle with Rhodesia Mr. Wilson seems to be inflicting more damage upon his own government than upon Mr. Ian Smith's.

Last Stalinist State ...

East Germany Has Built a Strong Economy With Profit Motive Allied to Communism

AS THE SOVIET ARMIES tightened their death grip on Nazi Germany, Hermann Goering retired to his estate at Karinhall, 20 miles east of Berlin, in peace. But near the ruins, the ruler of Communist Germany, Walter Ulbricht, has built an estate, Scherlitzbrücke, where he, too, goes now to brood.

The uprisings in Czechoslovakia and the student unrest in Poland fill Ulbricht with foreboding that he may be witnessing his own gathering Götterdämmerung.

By RICHARD DOMER from Berlin

Ironically, Ulbricht was rocked by the unrest in his neighborhood while he lit the fuse to a new Berlin crisis.

Even the United States and North Vietnam meet in Paris, Ulbricht is using the Vietnamese war as blackmail to oust the Western powers from Berlin. But now the tides which swept aside the Stalinist regime in Czechoslovakia threaten Ulbricht's regime, the last Stalinist in Eastern Europe.

Ulbricht, however, is no drug-addled Goering. The record establishes that he is unlikely to surrender abjectly. At 74, Ulbricht is no less tenacious than his counterpart in that other partitioned land half a world away. 78-year-old North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh (to whom, incidentally, Ulbricht is the biggest supplier of military equipment after the Soviet Union and China).

A cabinetmaker, Ulbricht never pried his trade. Instead, after his discharge from the Kaiser's army in 1919, he became a Communist conspirator. When the Nazis took power, Ulbricht fled to Paris, there to establish the headquarters which controlled the Communist underground in the Third Reich. When Hitler invaded France, Ulbricht fled to Moscow, there to fight with the Soviet armies that halted Hitler's hordes.

A Soviet military plane flew him back to Germany in April, 1945, to organize Communist rule. He has been the top German in Communist Germany ever since (and the head of the East German state since its founding in October, 1949).

Ulbricht survived the 1953 uprising and the Berlin Wall crisis in 1961. He has now ruled East Germany longer than did Hitler, the Third Reich. Ulbricht is remarkable not for what he has achieved, but for what he has survived. Nothing in his face in the past, however, prepared him for the perils now pressing in from every side.

Ulbricht is feuding openly with the new Prague regime of Alexander Dubcek; he is defeated by the liberal elements in Poland; he is locked in a no-quarter political warfare with the Bonn government.

In 1953, the Soviet Union swiftly put down the anti-Ulbricht uprising in East Germany. Today, Ulbricht is even more vital to the Kremlin as the linchpin in its crumbling satellite empire. But the Soviets can no longer react with the minimal risks they did in 1953.

Politically, Ulbricht's two most implacable foes—Washington and Bonn—are as fearful as he of a blowup in East Germany. The flames would engulf West Berlin and directly involve the United States. Embitterment over the permanence of Germany's partitioning would make it impossible for the Bonn government to stand aside, as it did in 1953; even now, the neo-Nazis are taunting Bonn politicians for their "cowardice" in 1953 and again in 1961.

But much has changed in East Germany since 1953—and nearly all in Ulbricht's favor. His Deutsche Demokratische Republik (German Democratic Republic) is no longer 1953's down-at-the-heels land of sullen, newly-laid pipeline connecting students is Helmut Schoeppe, 24.

Because the older generation's hearts and minds are with their countries across the Iron Curtain, Ulbricht has gambled East Germany's future on youth even more than have the other Communist regimes.

East Germany is a leader in Communist bloc education, which, after industrialization, has had budgetary priority. Ten years of school attendance is compulsory; teachers have high status and pay to match. In 1946, East Germany had six universities enrolling 8,000 students; today, it has 44 universities and technical institutes with 220,000 full-time students.

Clearly, the incredible Ulbricht has a lot going for him as he wages his climactic battle for survival.

One of Ulbricht's pampered bombers made a heavy and concentrated attack on Krefeld, site of heavy steel industries, 10 miles west of the Ruhr. Germany sent the heaviest attacking force in several weeks against London and the south coast which did some property damage and killed several persons. King George VI inspected the British 8th Army and men of the French and United States

Hong Kong Strategy

Communists Abandon Tactics of Violence

By ARTHUR C. MILLER from Hong Kong

COMMUNIST elements here, thrown into confusion by the failure of last year's disturbance to shake the colonial government, appear to be getting better organized again. In recent days they have demonstrated an ability to act in a unified fashion and to respond quickly to any issue that might be exploited to the disadvantage of the Hong Kong authorities.

There are no indications that the local Communists plan any large-scale disturbances after the fashion of 1957. Instead they seem to have changed tact and are now following a course of picketing the government with small but disconcerting pins wherever possible.

When an Urban Services Department garbage truck slid on a wet pavement and smashed through a railing outside a Communist bank the other day, staff members of the bank staged a protest right on the spot. Shouting anti-British slogans against a backdrop of Mao songs blaring out of loudspeakers in the bank, the Reds condemned the crash as a "British imperialist provocation."

For several weeks now they have been organizing "back to work" demonstrations by workers who were dismissed from their jobs after going on strike in support of the Communists last year. Almost daily these dismissed workers assemble at the offices of the colony's bus, ferry and utility companies to chant Mao slogans and demand re-employment. The companies are letting the left-wing workers exercise their lungs. But they are not prepared to put them back on the payrolls and thus give them a chance to stir more trouble.

Invariably these demonstrations are non-violent. And invariably they reflect a high degree of organization. During a recent visit to the colony of the U.S. nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise, Peking once again lashed Britain for allegedly allowing Hong Kong to be used as a military base for "U.S. imperialism." The charge has been heard many times in the past.

On this occasion, however, there was a significant difference. Shortly after the official Chinese protest, posters, leaflets and fake $50 (U.S.) notes were scattered in various districts. The posters called for an end to the use of Hong Kong as an American "war base" and demanded a diplomatic solution to the border problem. Dealing with outstanding differences in this manner is a far cry from the situation last year — and one the Hong Kong authorities are quite happy to promote.

The New China News Agency men are the quasi-official representatives of Peking in the colony. Thus the exchange of notes was as close as it is possible to come to a diplomatic solution to the border problem. Dealing with outstanding differences in this manner is a far cry from the situation last year — and one the Hong Kong authorities are quite happy to promote.

The message to be found in these recent developments must certainly be that the Communists, having learned that violence does not win friends, are going to concentrate their efforts on peaceful demonstrations, political harangues and a touch of old-fashioned diplomacy when that seems of use.

It is also apparent that the Hong Kong Communists are going to be working in closer coordination with Peking. And all the while they will be striving to create a mass base of support, something they did not have in the 1957 disturbances.

The important point is that

No More Nicknames For 'Small Adults'

By FRANK LOWE

ITHE OTHER DAY, while leafing through a magazine put out by the far-away Denver City Post, I came across an article asking "Where have the nicknames gone?"

The writer put it this way:

"On our street there are at least 50 children — Jeff, Bart, Brett, Lee, Kirk, Karen, Stacey, Lisa, Rene — but not one Red, Slim or Suzie Q in the bunch."

These disorders so unversed Ulbricht that he forbade all open-air demonstrations against the fighting in Vietnam.

This is a device entitling the state to a cut of the profits, but Ulbricht is delighted with the results. "The state has been an absolutely silent partner," he reported. "It has helped me to expand on a scale that would have been impossible without state help."

Three Factors Will Influence Voters

By G. L. CHATTERTON
Progressive-Conservative Candidate,
Esquimalt-Saanich Riding

I believe the three major factors that will influence voters June 25 are the candidate, the party platform and past performance, and the leader. For 22 years the people of this area have had the opportunity to learn of my performance and achievements in various elected offices, but there are many newcomers.

I started as president of a PTA and moved to chairman of the school board, from councillor to reeve of Saanich where my initiation of long-term planning is still bearing fruit.

As head of the Veterans Land Act for Vancouver Island for 15 years I learned about housing, land values and farming (my BSc. in agriculture stood me in good stead) as well as about veterans' affairs (my service as navigation officer in RCAF helped here).

I have been chairman or president of Saanich Parent-Teacher Council, DVA Employees Association, Community Planning Association, Appraisal Institute of Canada (Victoria Chapter), Capitol Region Planning Board of

B.C. Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities, and of Saanich Police Commission.

I was an executive member of the Agricultural Institute of Canada (Victoria Chapter), and of the Union of B.C. Municipalities. As a member of Capital Improvement District Commission of B.C., I initiated the purchase of the land along the Island Highway between Thetis Lake and Goldstream. As director of Victoria and Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau I was an advocate to expand its activities.

As one of the 23-member national executive committee which arranged our leadership convention I gained valuable experience on the operation of a national political party and I am still a member of the national executive.

This background and experience has been most valuable to me in carrying out the functions of a member of parliament. It enabled me to assess the needs of this area and play a part in establishing such projects as the new airport terminal, forest research laboratory, Fisher's Wharf at Shoal Harbor, additional mooring flats in Sidney Harbor and the Postal Station "A" on Saanich Road. I have always considered that being an MP is a full-time job and with the help of my wife, Kitty, and four children (three of them attending university) I have devoted all my energies to it. I am at home in two languages and with considerable effort am becoming proficient in French.

As a Canadian delegate to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference in Uganda, to the Inter-Parliamentary Union Conference in Yugoslavia, and as an observer to the OECD in Geneva, I obtained first-hand information on certain aspects of external affairs.

Since I made it a point to be present when parliament is sitting, communication with my constituents is essential and I deal personally and promptly with every letter. I take it up directly with the ministers, all of whom have extended good co-operation to me.

A vital part of a member's function is to take part in the operations of the House of Commons, particularly in dealing with legislation and in the committee where the record will attest to my participation.

I was spokesman for our party on the complicated Canada Pension Plan, and other welfare legislation, veterans' affairs and Mr. Stanfield chose me to head a new caucus committee on housing and urban affairs.

Mr. Stanfield has proven his leadership by his creative achievements in Nova Scotia where his Industrial Estates Ltd. brought in 38 new industries from eight different countries and provided thousands of new jobs. He improved social welfare, but can claim 11 straight years of balanced budgets in some difficult years of national recession.

Spiraling inflation chopped the purchasing power of the dollar by 17 cents. Under Liberal mismanagement cost of living is skyrocketing. Economic growth is almost half of what it should be and unemployment is growing.

Mr. Trudeau failed to present a throne speech and a budget, he has presented no policy so far and the Liberals will have to bank on "charisma" to solve the serious problems of Canada.

his policies on most important aspects e.g., housing and urban development, social welfare, pacific policy, pollution, agriculture, external affairs, communications and on fiscal integrity.

The NDP as usual, knowing that they will not be called on to deliver, has promised everything.

Mr. Stanfield has proven his leadership by his creative achievements in Nova Scotia where his Industrial Estates Ltd. brought in 38 new industries from eight different countries and provided thousands of new jobs. He improved social welfare, but can claim 11 straight years of balanced budgets in some difficult years of national recession.

Spiraling inflation chopped the purchasing power of the dollar by 17 cents. Under Liberal mismanagement cost of living is skyrocketing. Economic growth is almost half of what it should be and unemployment is growing.

'Comprehensive, Radical' Reforms Soon

Labor Retaliates Against Lords

Wilson

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Wilson dealt with rebellion on the House of Lords Thursday for defying the Labor government by refusing to endorse an order-in-council toughening measures against Rhodesia.

Wilson announced he was scrapping all-party talks for modernizing the ancient upper chamber by agreement and said the government soon will go ahead on its own with "comprehensive and radical" reforms.

He did not specify the changes but made clear they will stop short of the outright abolition demanded by a bloc of his supporters, despite their sharpened clamor after the heavily-Conservative upper house snubbed the government by a narrow majority Tuesday night.

Czech Chief Watches Russians on Own Soil

PRAGUE (UPI) — Warsaw Pact manoeuvres of Soviet and other communist troops in Czechoslovakia began Thursday under the eyes of President Ludvik Svoboda.

Czech newspapers and private citizens have expressed uneasiness over the possibility Soviet troops would be stationed permanently in the country, or at least stay longer after the exercises end. This would enable the Kremlin to take an even firmer stand towards the "democratization" process of Prague's new communist reform regime.

Key Figures Stay In Greek Shakeup

ATHENS (Reuters) — Prime Minister George Papadopoulos reshuffled his cabinet Thursday, replacing six ministers with professors and economists.

None of the key cabinet figures—such as former army officers—was dropped in the first major shakeup since the military-backed government seized power 14 months ago.

The 65-year-old premier and former colonel placed the new men in some important ministries, including commerce, justice and social welfare.

ALL RESPECTED

Observers said the shakeup had little political significance. The government seemed to need men with administrative abilities, they said. All the new ministers are respected in their professions.

Papadopoulos told reporters the change was "to improve the functioning of the government and the more effective pursuit of the aims of the revolution."

"Every collective instrument needs renewal from time to time, and I hope we have succeeded in using the dynamism of the new generation," he said.

NEW FACES

The new ministers are Ioannis Triantafyllopoulos, Justice; Evangelinos Tsakos, commerce; Spyridon Litsikis, communications; Loukas Petros, social welfare; Konstantinos Charkidis, mer-

In effect, Wilson turned back about 265 official Tory supporters—the clock to last Oct. 31 when the government announced through the Speech from the Throne at the opening of Parliament that it planned to reduce the powers of the House of Lords and eliminate its hereditary basis.

Since then the lords have resigned themselves to a drastic upheaval in the setup of the 700-year-old institution. An inter-house inter-party committee has been working for months to reach an amicable arrangement and was reported near agreement when the peers upset the apportionment Tuesday.

Though their action was unprecedented and was described in the Commons by Wilson Tuesday as a "denial of democracy," it actually had no practical effect.

ORDER REJECTED

What the peers did, by a vote of 183 to 184, was reject a government order approved by the Commons for hardening sanctions against the rebelling, all-white government of Ian Smith in Rhodesia. But the cabinet can keep the order going anyway by renewing it every 28 days, in case the House of Lords should remain recalcitrant.

In any event, the Conservative leadership—which deliberately roped in an anti-government vote despite advance warnings of retribution—blamed broadly that there would be no opposition to passage of a second order once the upper house had registered its view.

TWO FACTORS

In the face of this, Wilson's counter-stroke apparently was stimulated by two major considerations—one of them the persistent outcry from a sizable body of Labor back-benchers for the upper chamber's abolition.

Perhaps a more important factor was that the action in the Lords contravened an accepted British tradition that the elected arm of the government should have control over foreign and colonial policy without hindrance from the hereditary side.

MORE SERIOUS

The interference was regarded as all the more serious in this case because the order-in-council was in compliance with a United Nations resolution aimed at helping Britain bring the breakaway Smith government to its knees.

Wilson indicated to the House, too, that a particular source of the government's wrath was the fact that the crisis came in the midst of debate and historic negotiations over the future of the Lords.

HEATH HIT

He called the action a "squid political manoeuvre" by the Tories and attacked Conservative Leader Edward Heath for "incompetence" in failing to get stronger support in a House of Lords in which there are about 265 official Tory supporters—plus many other sympathizers against only 103 Labor peers.

Heath, whose role in the incident has won him little support from the Conservative press, reflected that Wilson's revenge on the Lords constituted a "naive, peacock display of temper."

Wilson gave no suggestion of a timetable for reforming the Lords. Under their existing powers, the peers themselves could delay any legislation for a year—this is one of the powers Labor intends to cut down sharply.

Labor has never explained what it meant, in the Speech from the Throne, by eliminating the hereditary basis of the Lords.

Wilson gave no suggestion of a timetable for reforming the Lords.

Haiti Arrests Wealthy White

PORT AU PRINCE (AP) — Military police Thursday arrested the millionaire son of one of the Caribbean's richest white men and charged him with supplying $150,000 to finance an attempted invasion of Haiti last month.

Clifford Brandt, 44, a Jamaican and a British subject who said his family lives in Montreal, denied the accusation. He was confined in the military prison adjoining President Francois Duvalier's palace.

The men, who pleaded guilty to a series of charges including murder, said the invasion was launched from the Bahamas.

Employees

- 1) Although the new contribution rates become effective June 30th 1968, the new benefit rates as shown in the table above will not automatically become effective at the same time.
- 2) The benefit rate is calculated on the basis of your most recent 30 contribution weeks. Therefore, some time will go by after July 1st before your contributions at the new rate will have the maximum effect on your rate of benefit.
- 3) For claims established before July 1st, the benefit rate established when the claim was made will continue to apply until the claim is ended.
- 4) As an employee, you will contribute at the new rate starting June 30th 1968, and your new contribution rate is shown in the contribution table above.
- 5) For earnings of less than $20.00 a week, most employees are credited with a contribution for half a week. However, farm employees and fishermen do not pay any contributions for earnings of less than $9.00 a week. But if they have earnings from $9.00 to $19.99, they pay 10¢ and are credited with a contribution for half a week.
- 6) If you work in lumbering and logging, and if your contribution weeks are determined by applying divisors to the number of cords or board feet produced, your contributions will be at the rate for earnings of $100 a week. This was formerly $68.

Revised copies of the Employer's Handbook and Table of Deductions will be mailed before June 30th 1968 to all employers registered with the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

In addition, booklets and tables for employers in logging and fishing will also be distributed at a later date.

These booklets and tables will contain detailed information on the amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act passed by Parliament in March of this year. If you have further questions or wish more information, the nearest office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission will be glad to help you.

We suggest that you keep this notice handy for future reference.

Paris Talks Assessment

U.S. Now Optimistic But Australia Glum

From CP

The South Vietnamese government allies appear to be split on the value of the Vietnam peace talks in Paris—the United States suggesting that encouraging signs are developing, and Australia maintaining the talks are mere exercises in polemics.

Meanwhile, British officials tend to doubt whether there is substance behind the American optimism.

The hint that something is about to come from U.S. Defence Secretary Clark Clifford, who told a Washington press conference that "there are straws which indicate some movement, no matter how slight."

But almost at the same time, Prime Minister John Gorton of Australia told a Canberra gathering of reporters he sees no halt in the Vietnam war resulting from the Paris talks, which he defined as nothing more than a debating session.

So far, the five weeks of meetings have produced virtually nothing to indicate a move toward compromise. The one change is the indication that meetings are developing into a double layer of discussions with once-a-week formal talks to be accompanied by what observers suggest will be shadowy whisperings in unreported secret sessions.

WIND FACTOR

This may be the reason for Clifford's detection of straws in the wind that could lead to encouraging developments.

In British quarters, there is no evidence of any kind of progress and there is grave doubt that reports of double-layer talks will mean anything.

In the British trial, the ball is in Hanoi's court. The United States has initiated a partial bombing ban and is waiting for Hanoi to make some reciprocal move before all the bombing in North Vietnam is called off. The North Vietnamese maintain the Americans are the aggressors and there is no need for Hanoi to make any concession.

Yet the North Vietnamese remain in Paris and the talks, no matter how sterile, continue. It is possible that the North Vietnamese side is waiting for some great change on the battlefield to strengthen its bargaining position.

As for the Americans, the presidential election campaign may be reason for soft-pedaling movements for troops already lost.

Are Cong Wrong?

PARIS (UPI) — Diplomatic sources Thursday said several ranking North Vietnamese leaders, including Defence Minister Vo Nguyen Giap, had criticized the Viet Cong shelling of Saigon as a major mistake.

The sources said Giap and other Hanoi officials felt the barrages have aroused both world and South Vietnamese public opinion against the communists.

The North Vietnamese critics were reportedly so worried about backlash in foreign capitals that Giap has urged a slowdown in delivery of Soviet-made 122-millimetre rockets to the Viet Cong. The six-foot-long rockets have been the chief weapon in the terrorist barrages.

American Toll Tops 25,000-Dead Mark

SAROGON (CP) — U.S. forces had a new memorial of seven and a half years of war in Vietnam Thursday—the American death toll rose above 25,000.

A military spokesman said 384 servicemen killed during the week ending June 15 brought the total to 25,064 since the Americans became involved in the conflict Jan. 1, 1961.

During the same period, a spokesman claimed 365,935 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed. These included 1,613 soldiers killed last week, he said.

HOSPITAL CARE

Of 2,325 Americans wounded last week, 1,247 needed hospital attention, he added.

More than 2,000 Americans have been killed since the Paris peace talks started.

Meanwhile, the U.S. command said today Saigon received its heaviest shelling in 10 days Thursday night and early this morning.

Ten rockets were fired into the area and the command reported six South Vietnamese ci-

By ARNOLD OLSON

It took me six years and two provinces before I learned to swim.

But then, Manitoba and Ontario did not have Colonist Free Swim Classes.

I had everything else going for me.

We lived near beaches and my father tried time after time to teach me to swim. But I was a slow learner.

The thing that finally stirred me to put all my father's teaching into practice was that I helped to build a diving board and my friends were having such a good time. I decided that I would learn to swim.

I am going the short cut through all those years, if I had had the advantage of enrolling in the Colonist Free Swim Classes.

My father could never compete with Mrs. Margie Naysmith when it comes to teaching children to swim.

He had only me as a pupil, but Mrs. Naysmith has been teaching thousands of children in the Victoria area for more than 15 years.

Swimming is not only good for children, but is also something they enjoy.

The benefits of a child learning among other children is another advantage of the lessons.

I could see (through the silver) as clearly as I can see you," Tumpson told Rep. John Dingell, (D-Mich.) chairman of the subcommittee. "I offered to sell them (Humble) my secret."

Tumpson said the oil company tested him and he said he turned up 675 cards, six $30 cards, seven $25 cards and four $1 cards without an error. "They treated my statement rather cavalierly until I showed them the winners," the student said.

LAST AUGUST

He said he discovered last August that he could pick a winner every time in the "heads and tails" game and the Humble firm made a settlement not to play and not to disclose his secret.

Tumpson said he could divulge the secret now because he had been subpoenaed to testify before a congressional committee.

Transportation for the eight-week course is $2.75. This is for both ways from North Ward School next to the Victoria Press Building, 2631 Douglas Street, to Elk Lake's Hamsterly Beach where the lessons are taught.

Enrollment is easy, just follow the instructions in the coupon advertising the classes.

Bus tickets must be paid for at the time of registration, and picked up at the Colonist office.

Children wishing to be grouped in the same class must have their applications submitted pinned together, along with the request that this be done.

So little effort can give so much fun.

Oil Firm Paid Game-Buster

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A law student Thursday told Congress that the Humble Oil Co. paid him not to play one of its service station prize contests after he proved to the huge oil company how to beat it at its own game.

Barry Tumpson, 26, a senior at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, told a House small business subcommittee that a Humble paid him an unspecified sum not to play its "heads and tails" game after he showed he could pick the winners by putting the cards under a slide projector light.

CARDS USED

The game involved a card, the size of a regular playing card, which had a number of circles covered by a silver metallic substance. If the participant rubbed off the winning circles — ones which showed either three tiger heads or 18 tiger tails — he would collect amounts varying from $1 to $30. Tumpson said he put the card into a slide projector and by its strong light could see behind the silver-like covering. He then rubbed the silver off the winning circle.

"I could see (through the silver) as clearly as I can see you," Tumpson told Rep. John Dingell, (D-Mich.) chairman of the subcommittee. "I offered to sell them (Humble) my secret."

Tumpson said the oil company tested him and he said he turned up 675 cards, six $30 cards, seven $25 cards and four $1 cards without an error. "They treated my statement rather cavalierly until I showed them the winners," the student said.

Congress Passes Touchy Bill

U.S. Income Tax Going Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives Thursday passed the long-fought bill to increase by 10 per cent the income tax take and to impose a $6,000,000,000 spending cut.

The vote was a bitter-sweet victory for President Johnson. He had urgently sought the ad-ded revenue—more than $15,000,000,000 from the surcharge and accompanying tax changes—to fight inflation and bolster the dollar.

But he sought almost to the end to scale down the $6,000,000,000 mandatory spending cut Congress had attached to it.

SENATE VOTE

The Senate is scheduled to vote about noon today, sending the measure to Johnson for assured approval. Fifteen days after the president signs it, increased withholding begins for U.S. wage and salary earners.

The bill, centre of wrangles and recurring deadlocks between Congress and the administration for most of a year, would impose a surcharge on individual taxpayers, except those in the lowest brackets, on 1968 income.

The surtax rate is 10 per cent, but the effective date for individuals is retrospective to April 1, while for corporations it covers the whole year.

It is scheduled to expire June 30, 1969, but Mills has indicated deficits will loom.

Demonstrators dragged off by police

Poor People Jam Traffic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poor People's campaigners staged their first extensive acts of civil disobedience Thursday, jamming evening rush-hour traffic at several busy intersections and blocking entrances to the agriculture department headquarters building.

The demonstrations by some 300 persons were carried on in the absence of top campaign leaders, who arrived afterward to cool the crowd and send most back to their encampment at Resurrection City.

DEPUTY CHIEF

Washington's deputy police chief, Jerry V. Wilson, said at least 85 persons were arrested and two taken to hospitals.

About 250 demonstrators arrived back at their encampment near the Lincoln Memorial, police fired at least one tear gas bomb. Witnesses said the group had become unruly crossing the last street before they arrived at the camp.

At least two demonstrators who got heavy doses of the tear gas were taken away in the camp's ambulance. The camp loudspeaker appealed to all residents to return to their tents.

The city called out at least one-quarter of its riot control unit. Police armed with rifles and tear gas cans assembled near the Lincoln Memorial just outside the Poor People's encampment as tempers and rumors ran high among the demonstrators.

ALL TRAFFIC
Authorities closed nearby Independence Avenue to all traffic.

At one point, federal and local police faced an angry, bottle-throwing group of youths outside Resurrection City.

The confrontation, which police said was the worst of the five-week campaign, began after six youths from the camp taunted six park policemen.

The confrontation ended when marshals from the camp brought the youths back inside.

There were no injuries or arrests.

The civil disobedience disorders began at the agriculture department, where the campaigners had been demonstrating around the clock. Finally two of the top campaign leaders arrived to cool them off.

Earlier, Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, leader of the campaign, told reporters that the widespread civil disobedience would not begin until today.

"None but the righteous will stay with us now," Abernathy said. "We're ready to go to war."

TRY ANOTHER:

He added that civil disobedience is needed because Congress and the administration have shown they're not going to respond without pressure.

"If it doesn't work one way, you've got to try another way."

Cleric's Bill Unpaid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Martin Luther King's brother walked out without paying $300 of a steak dinner bill run up by himself and 36 disengaged Poor Peoples' demonstrators after Wednesday's mass rally, it was disclosed Thursday.

The incident occurred when Rev. A. D. King, who had been preparing to go home for the night, and served 37 steak dinners to King and his companions. At the end of the meal, he was presented a bill for $300.

"Rev. King said all they had was $300," Harry Soghrigian, a hotel spokesman, said. "The hotel felt it best not to make a stink about it."

Mexican Checked, Rechecked

CIUDAD JUAREZ (Reuters)

Mexican police and psychiatric questioned a 17-year-old Mexican-American Thursday as FBI agents checked his claim to have known of a plot to assassinate Senator Robert Kennedy.

The sheriff added that "Sirhan's food is prepared in a kitchen separate from the ones in which all other inmates" food is prepared, "but that the food provided Sirhan is no different in any way from the food served to other inmates . . ."

KEPT ALONE
Sirhan has no contact with other inmates, Pitchess said, although he is allowed to exercise in a 30-foot-long jail corridor.

Pitchess' disclosures were made as Sirhan's new defense attorney, Russell Parsons — a crusty veteran of thousands of courtroom encounters — began a crash study of the assassination of Kennedy.

Parsons and Sirhan are due to appear in superior court June 28 when the 24-year-old defendant will enter a plea to charges he fatally shot Kennedy and wounded five other persons.

The youth was detained Monday while hitchhiking from Texas to Mexico City. His diary contained a June 4 entry saying he had prior knowledge of "a plot to kill Senator Kennedy."

The judge will hear the police reports and decide whether any charges should be preferred, the spokesman said.

Cec Ferguson may have to pass up defence of the West Coast open championship, which opens tomorrow at the Port Alberni Golf Club, but the regret would be minimal for the Victoria junior champion.

The 18-year-old, better from the Gorge Vale Golf Club, who will almost certainly represent his province in the junior inter-provincial team matches in August, is hot on the trail of the B.C. amateur championship.

SUB-PAR GOLF

He reached the semi-finals yesterday, the only one of the four juniors to qualify who got past the first round of match play, by defeating veteran Laurie Kerr, the 1966 B.C. champion from Okanagan, 8 and 8, with sub-par golf on the testing Gorge layout.

Ferguson tangles with a former clubmate, Art Donaldson, in today's 18-hole semi-finals.

Donaldson, a former professional who is now course superintendent at Vancouver Capilano, reached the round of four by eliminating Bremerton-junior Brian Field, 3 and 2, and make it certain that the title will remain in B.C.

OTHER SEMI-FINAL

Meeting in today's other semi-final are defending-champion John Russell and Ross Ellison of Vancouver.

Russell, who qualified with a last-round 71 on Wednesday, continued his fine golf to eliminate 18-year-old Tom Moryson of Pitt Meadows, 5 and 4.

COULDN'T SHAKE WOES

Kerr, who started the 72-hole qualifying play 69-75 before tapering off to 78-84 in his last two rounds, couldn't shake Wednesday's woes.

Needing his best golf to cope with his young opponent, Kerr shot seven bogies and a double bogey to be eight over par when the match ended on the 12th green.

He won only the ninth hole, when Ferguson hooked his tee shot and paid the penalty for a lost ball, and had to take a half when he shot his only birdie on the 10th hole.

He won only the ninth hole, when Ferguson hooked his tee shot and paid the penalty for a lost ball, and had to take a half when he shot his only birdie on the 10th hole.

BIG EARLY LEAD

Starting par-birdie-par, Ferguson was seven up after eight holes. After matching Kerr's birdie, he won the 11th with a birdie and closed it out with a par four on the 18th to be one under par.

Donaldson's steady golf was just a bit too much for the long-hitting Field, who lost the first two holes but continually threatened to pull even.

Field got to within one hole twice before making the turn two down, then put the pressure on again by winning the 11th with an eagle three. Field put his second shot on the 485-yard hole nine feet from the pin and made his putt to beat Donaldson's birdie.

REFUSED TO YIELD

But Donaldson refused to yield the lead. He halved the next three holes in par, went two up with a par five on the 15th and then closed it out with a birdie deuce on the 16th, canning his eight-footer after Field came up short with a 10-foot birdie try.

Donaldson's last putt put him one over par after going out with a one-over 38.

Best round of the day was turned in by Russell, who gave Moryson little chance with a three-under-par performance.

LOTS OF BIRDIES

Russell took command right from the start. He went par-par-birdie-par-birdie-birdie - par par, making the turn with a three-under 34 and a three-hole lead. Moryson won the fifth and added an insurance run in the seventh with his homer.

Losing pitcher Larry Jay hit a three-run double and Jim Wilson a two-run double in the losers' big inning.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Freshwater fishing in the lakes is still rated pretty good, but with both coho and spring salmon showing up at most of the favorite spots most anglers have been concentrating on the saltwater.

Some springs are being taken in Port San Juan at Port Renfrew. The smelts have shown there and may be taken in nets or on the beach when they make their spawning runs with the surf at about a half tide.

Otter Point has been producing some big springs, but it is still a little slow. Early July is best time there.

But Secretary Island-Becher Bay waters have been pretty hot for the big ones. Brother Fred and Earl Dobbs hit them at Becher Saturday, boating five springs from eight to 12 pounds between 6 a.m. and 7 a.m. They were using one deep line and another with 12 ounces. The 12-ounces produced the three biggest fish.

Pedder Bay fishing has also been good. In a weekend check in Pedder Bay to Sooke waters, of 18 boats 33 had no catch. The rest had 60 springs in the eight to 25-pound class, one each, 18 chinook grins.

Oak Bay waters have been spotty, but Trial Island and Discovery have been producing some springs. Needham is starting to show in Oak Bay waters, so fishing may improve this weekend.

Saunders Inlet is still good, with Finlayson Arm still the hot spot for big springs . . . and there are now picking them up on lighter tackle. Al Wright has been getting them in the 12 pound class in the passes between Goldstream Island and shore on 70 feet of nylon line and 12 ounces of weight. Springs and grins have been taken in McKeen Bay and coho in Oceans Bay, with Strip and minknow best lure. Finlayson Arm is doing up coho and they are biting off and on all day and every day.

Trophy winner for the fourth week in the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association qualifying derby was Ken Smith with a 27.3-pound spring. Hidden weight winners were Bob Redgrave, Marie Sidaway, J. Robson and J. Elliott. Last qualifying week will end July 29, and fish-off will be Aug. 13.

Cowichan Bay fishing has shown a big improvement with limits of jacks and coho being taken by trolling with strip or hoochies and spoons. Mochern has springs up to 34½ pounds. A Saturday boat check saw 25 boats, eight with no catch, others with two springs, 15 jacks, 18 coho, 12 chinook grins, and four coho grins.

Active and Portor Pass have been producing a few big springs for mochern. Lee Hallberg, Dick Smith and Keith Doughty found fish at Yellowpoint and off Claytons, which they took on three lines . . . Kippred Spots, Kamure and No. 4½ Tom Mack. They used six to eight ounces of weight and 75 feet of line.

Yellowpoint-Coffin Point area has been giving up springs, but the Five Fingers-Snake Island area, off Nanaimo, has been better for bluebacks. The flattops continue poor.

Northwest Bay and vicinity is rated good to excellent, but Sunday was an off-day, as it appeared to be almost everywhere.

French Creek has been fair in the mornings and poor in the evenings. Limit catches have been reported fairly regularly from Bowser-Deep Bay waters, where Chrome Island has been the hot spot. At least four ounces of weight was required and fish found to be feeding on small shrimp.

Corky Corbett of Painter's Lodge at Campbell River reports some big springs in the Duncan Bay, Copper Cliffs and Frenchman Pool area.

Wednesday night, William Cobb of Seattle boated a 29½-pounder, and his partner, Gary Walden, landed 22 and 20-pounders, all from Duncan Bay.

Coho fishing is still spotty, but the silvers are in the Campbell River area. A Saturday check of 25 boats at Big Rock ramp showed six with no catch, others with two springs and 11 coho. Change of tides in Cape Mudge, Butler Point, April Point waters has been best.

Youth Pitches No-Hit Game

Eric Lister, 15, pitched a no-hitter in Evening Optimist Babe Ruth League play Thursday to lead Patterson Construction to a 4-0 victory over Camosun Electric. Lister struck out 11 batters and walked five.

In other minor baseball games, One-Stop Services downed Saanich Lions, 6-5, in a Carnarvon Pony League game and Teamsters stopped Yarrow, 7-6, in the Esquimalt-Victoria West-Little League contest.

Just try this with any other ignition system.

Badly fouled, shorted or iced plugs run fine when you have 40,000 volts available to fire through 'em. And if Thunderbolt will run an engine on plugs like these, think what it'll do with a new set. For one thing, you'll go years between changes. For another, Thunderbolt has no breaker points to wear out or replace. Then there's the matter of starts. People who tried Thunderbolt for the first time couldn't tell when the engine started. Suddenly it was running. There's a smoothness and quietness of operation . . . from idle to full bore . . . that you've got to experience. Thunderbolt . . . only electronic ignition created exclusively for marine use . . . is a year older, and better, than anyone else's. But the difference doesn't end there. Thunderbolt can develop almost twice the voltage of any other system, and deliver it several times faster. That's why the 14 new Mercs with Thunderbolt ignition outperform anything in their class. Tacoma Golfer, Bruce Devlin Take Lead in Canadian Open

TORONTO (CP) — Ken Still of Australia took the first-round lead in the Canadian Open golf championship with three-under-par 6½ Thursday, while most of the field found it difficult to break 70.

Devlin scored his round by scrambling out of the rough along the 6,725-yard St. George's Golf Club layout and still missed his chance to grab sole possession of first place by three-putting the final green.

WINDS AFFECT SCORES

Winds gusting up to 20 miles an hour out of the northwest sent scores soaring among the 147 professionals and three amateurs.

Two of the favorites, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, scored 73 and 76 respectively in the chase for the $25,000 first-place prize money at stake in the $125,000 tournament.

Billy Casper, the third member of golf's Big Three, tied with four other U.S. professionals and Canadian Mac Norman of Gilstord, Ont., for third place with 68. The other Americans carding two-under total were Tom Weiskopf, Lou Graham, R. H. Sikes and Orville Moody.

Gary Player of South Africa, another top name on the tour circuit, finished with a 71 after shooting a par-34 over the front nine holes.

B.C. RESULTS

Three Canadians including Ken Fulton of Trail were bunched with 12 Americans and Australia's Bruce Crampton at 71. Fulton fired a sizzling 31 on the front nine but ran into grief in the late winds and needed 40 strokes on the back nine. Al Balding and Leon DeCaile, both of Toronto, also had 71s.

Bob Cox of Vancouver who was three-under-par after 11 holes struggled in with a 74. Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver a 75 and Bill Wakeham of Victoria a 77.

George Knudson of Toronto, Canada's leading money winner on the pro tour, had a 75.

Still was five under par after 15 holes. On the 18th his five-iron tee shot hit a bunker and he wound up with a one-over four. He lost another stroke when he missed a three-foot putt for a par four on the 18th hole.

"I don't like to three-putt greens and I certainly didn't want to three-putt the 18th today, but my score will still be 67 in 10 years time so what's the difference," he said. Devlin said he felt he should be given a "license for stealing," after a round in which "I can't really remember hitting any fairways."

"I'm extremely embarrassed because I should have scored an 80," Devlin said.

He hit it was in the rough almost every time, but wound up with 25 putts that included 10 one-putt greens. He also holed a 70-foot chip shot for a birdie four on the 15th hole. Included was a 15-foot birdie putt and a 15-footer for par.

Devlin was the third-round leader in the 1965 Open, "and I topped four of my tee shots that day too," he said.

PLAYED SLOPPY

Nicklaus, who took 35 putts, said he "played sloppy."

He got into trouble early. On the first hole his tee shot hit the rough, his second sailed past the green and he settled for a one-over five.

He hit only nine fairways, reached 11 greens in regulation and three-putted on three occasions.

"It was the wind out there," said Nicklaus, referring to the strong gusting northwest breeze.

"It makes the course awfully tricky and makes it play a lot harder than it would normally."

Olympic Hopefuls to Compete In Track Meet Here Saturday

Mexico City is about 7,000 feet higher and 2,500 miles away from Centennial Stadium in Victoria but even with today's modern conveniences it may take some of the athletes attending Saturday's YM-YWCA International track meet about four months to get there.

However, some of the more than 700 athletes competing here are likely to be at the Mexican Olympics — especially when the open field includes two world record holders and at least a dozen international athletes who have represented either Canada or the United States in such meets as the Pan-American or Commonwealth Games.

Joining Canada's outstanding male sprinter, Harry Jerome, in the best-in-the-world class, is Seattle's fastest housewife, Doris Brown, the holder of the women's indoor mile record.

Mrs. Brown has only entered the 400-yard run to date but her best performance of 56.0 seconds in the event could be the spark needed for Victoria's Anne Langdale to turn in her best time.

The Mt. Douglas speedster is the only Canadian woman to run in the 56-second bracket so far this season, with a 56.7 clocking and still has lots of time to improve, having just reached juvenile stature at 16 years old.

OTHER SEATTLE STARS

If meet officials can convince another Seattle resident, Janet Johnson, to enter the 400 instead of the 100 and 220-yard dashes against Vancouver's Irene Piotrowak and Valerie Jerome Parker, the quarter mile could be the day's best event.

Mits Johnson, a member of the U.S. Pan-American team last year, has toured the 400 run in less than 55 seconds.

Also coming with the strong Seattle entry are Carol Martin, a silver medalist at the Pan-American competition, Virginia Hustead, who is expected to pace Vancouver Pan-Am competitor Jay Daigle in the savelin, and Helen Thayer, like Miss Martin, a standout in the discus.

BRIGHT AND BERT

Add to this the excellent possibilities of a sub-four-minute mile, a seven-foot high jump and 18-foot pole vault in the men's events plus tough competition for Jerome in the 100 and 220 and the meet promises to be the best ever to be held on Vancouver Island.

It certainly is the biggest. The meet, which has been officially designated at the B.C. trials to chose a team for the July Olympic trials in Ontario, gets underway at 10 a.m. with the age-class heats.

The age-class finals and open heats start at 12:45 p.m. and the open finals start at 6:30 p.m., preceded by the six-mile run and joggers' mile, part of the YMCA program for over-35s.

A day-time ticket costs $1.00 with a 50 cent charge plus day ticket for the evening program. General admission for the evening is $1.50 with reserved seats $2.00. All tickets are available at the gate only. Students and pensioners are admitted for half price.

Hijacking

Detour Made In Style

HAVANA (CP) — Cuban authorities took the 75 passengers and five crew members of a hijacked Venezuelan DC-9 jet airliner on a free sightseeing tour of Santiago de Cuba Thursday.

The plane was hijacked earlier by a young man armed with a grenade and knife.

He burst into the pilot's cabin while the plane was en route from Santo Domingo, in the Dominican Republic, to Caracas, Venezuela, and forced him to fly to Santiago de Cuba.

FOUR FROM U.S.

The plane landed at 12:30 a.m. and Cuban security officials immediately drove off with the hijacker. No information was released concerning him.

The U.S. embassy in Santo Domingo said four Americans were aboard, including Col. Henry Joaquin, chief of the American military assistance group in the Dominican Republic, and his wife, Wanda.

The passengers and crew were taken to the plush Versalles Hotel outside Santiago.

MONEY FIRST

The plane was the second Venezuelan airliner hijacked this year and the 10th hijacked aircraft to land in Cuba in the last nine months.

Suspects

Soviet Pair Nabbed Loitering

LONDON (Reuters) — Two Russian trade officials ordered out of Britain recently as suspected spies were arrested by detectives who thought they were car thieves, police sources said Thursday.

The Russians had been shadowed for almost two months by officers of the special branch—Scotland Yard's counter-espionage unit. But the men who arrested them May 15 were local detectives on the watch for car thieves.

The Russians, Yuri A. Dushkin and Vladimir Loginov, were reported to have been carrying cameras fitted with long-focus lenses. They were caught loitering by a car in South London near a garage used for defense ministry vehicles.

KEPT QUIET

The affair was kept quiet. It happened just a week before Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart made an official visit to Moscow. A rumour then might have made the atmosphere for the visit more difficult.

The matter came to light Wednesday in Investors, the Soviet government newspaper. It complained that the two officials were arrested and beaten while in London with a trade delegation.

Scotland Yard denied that the men were beaten. It said there was a scuffle when one tried to evade arrest.

After the incident the two men left Britain.

The Peacekeeper

Roger Many Gums was recently appointed constable in Gleichen, Alta., as part of Indian self-government movement. Appointment was made after complaints by Gleichen businessmen about vandalism by Indian children from nearby Blackfoot reserve. Gleichen is 50 miles east of Calgary. —(CP)

Last Book by Mailer Banned in Australia

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Customs officials have banned Norman Mailer's last novel, "Why We Are in Vietnam," from entering Australia after finding it "indecent and obscene." It was learned Thursday.

A customs department spokesman said the department agreed with a New York Times review which said it was impossible to find three consecutive lines in the book's 208 pages that could be quoted in a family newspaper.

Also banned was a San Francisco hippie magazine called City Lights 3, edited by poet Lawrence Ferlinghetti.

The customs department called the magazine "blasphemous."

Prisoner Turns Wheels on Justice

VENTURA, Calif.—Police here believe they have a first in the annals of crime.

A paraplegic, they said, made his escape in a motorized wheelchair from the prison ward at Ventura County hospital.

The fugitive was identified as Richard Messina, 26, of Oxnard, Calif., awaiting trial on a narcotics charge. He is paralysed from the waist down.

When last seen—seated in his wheelchair—he was wearing a green sweater, blue pyjama bottoms and black shoes.

"He just slipped out of the detention ward," said an astounded officer, "and hasn't been seen since."

Vaccine for Syphilis 'Could Wipe It Out'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Medical researchers said Thursday they are close to developing a vaccine for syphilis, the scourge of mankind for generations.

At the moment, three doctors told the American Medical Association, their hopes for an anti-syphilis shot rest with a single chimpanzee and the test-tube cultivation of a rare, relatively harmless disease sometimes caught by Venezuelan sailors.

The scientists, working on the project at the National Communicable Disease Research Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga., said the vaccine, if successful, could completely "wipe out syphilis forever in just a few years."

The vaccine would, in effect, give humans a slight case of treponema pinta, a disease unknown in America and basically confined to the Indian population of Venezuela and Mexico.

Venezuelan sailors who have horrible lesions, blindness and insanity.

Pinta's effects appear to be limited to some change in skin color.

Dr. William Brown, chief of the venereal disease program of the Atlanta laboratory, said the accomplishment so far is a "real breakthrough."

He said there were 20,000 new cases of reported syphilis in the United States each year, and the real number might run as high as 50,000.

Brown, Dr. U. S. Great Kuhn III and Dr. Leslie Norins described their research to the American Medical Association convention here.

The bacillus which causes pinta is indistinguishable from the syphilis spirochete under the microscope, the doctors said.

Unlike syphilis, however, pinta does not cause crippling,

Show Indicates Victorians In Mainstream of Art

By INA D. D. UTHOFF

It has been a really large entry this year for the 18th Vancouver Island Jury Show at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

Paintings, graphics and sculpture demonstrate that Victoria has entered the mainstream of contemporary art in a big way in North America.

Some of it is good, some perhaps not, but at any rate the artists of Vancouver Island do not believe in remaining static.

The young painters are playing an active part but some of the already well-established ones are experimenting with current trends, perhaps not always successfully, but it gives added vitality in the work.

Many new names appear this year with entries from welded metal sculpture to a wider range of graphics.

The first prize of $100 donated by the women's committee of the Art Gallery was awarded to Steven Ramos for his metal sculpture now occupying a place of honor in the centre of the Main Gallery.

As it is quite a large piece, it has to be placed rather high to function strongly with the crowd milling around it. One needs to go back when things are quiet to really see it.

Out of doors might have been a better location but an opening night reception has, as a rule, to be held indoors, so nothing could be done about it.

More than 400 works were submitted, of which only one eighth were selected for hanging by the sole juror Mrs. Doris Shadolt, Vancouver Art Gallery curator.

Four honorable mentions were awarded of which I find Flemming Jorgensen's the most challenging.

At first I did not quite get its impact. It appeared to be an almost blank white canvas in the upper part with two areas of color rubbed into the lower portions.

But it required meditation. It proved to be something that does not make itself immediately felt. The painter had been absorbed in the handling of space for its own sake, something that is only too often ignored by the artist who fills up his canvas with distracting interests and does not give the observer a chance for meditation.

This, I feel sure, will be challenged by many who are interested only in the three large areas, two in color, the third blank, but this embodies the awareness of the use of positive and negative space, a fundamental principle of design or pictorial composition.

The other honorable mentions were awarded to Maxwell Bates, Gail Bigby and Donald Harvey.

The lively work being done in the Victoria University's art department adds greatly to the prestige of our city.

Roman Orgy with Pingpong

NEW YORK (UPI) — Five women and several men, most arrested early Thursday as others fled naked into the streets when police raided a Roman-style house of prostitution during an orgy.

Police said at least five women and several men, most of them leaving most of their clothes behind, escaped arrest by fleeing through a backdoor of a three story brownstone on Manhattan's smart East Side.

The operation was about two months old and had been known to police for three weeks, authorities said. The house catered to prosperous out-of-town businessmen in

New York for conventions and charged $100 for a half-night with up to three girls with liquor gratis.

Pt. Dan d'Andrea, one of the raiders, said it looked "like a Roman orgy" complete with swimming pool and sauna bath.

"People were in all phases of undress," he said. "Some were in the pool. Some were in the sauna. Most were revelling around in the bedrooms furnished with round beds and wall-to-wall beds."

Police said the establishment had a game room with pingpong and billiard tables, two bars, and five bedrooms, in addition to the tiled pool and sauna in the basement. They said bowls of fruit including grapes were placed throughout the house.

Charged with prostitution were Sharon Bennett, 22, Elise Ferry, 23, Julie Carlyle, 26, and Maria Rodriguez, 22. Mrs. Marie Pierre, 43, of Brooklyn, was charged with promoting prostitution and serving liquor without a licence. All were released on bail for a July 2 hearing.

Pope Ponders Pill Ban Stand

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul is opposed to making any fundamental change in the Catholic church's ban on birth control but has run into strong objections from other churchmen and is reconsidering his position, Vatican sources said Thursday.

The Pope completed a 40-page document several weeks ago reaffirming the church's traditional ban on artificial means of birth control—but then decided not to publish it because of these objections, the sources said.

EARLY REPORT

United Press International reported on June 2 the Pope had delayed his long-awaited pronouncement on birth control. But at that time the reasons for the delay were not known.

Vatican sources said Thursday this is what happened:

The Pope wrote his document affirming as still valid the teaching of the church down through the centuries—that artificial limitation of births is morally wrong.

HISTORIC VERDICT

In the document the Pope expressly affirmed that he took "full responsibility" for this historic decision. He apparently felt he must state this because an overwhelming majority of his own special study commission on the subject recommended in June, 1965, that the church change its position, the sources said.

The Pope sent the document to the Vatican press to be printed, and then had it distributed to certain high officials of the Roman Curia, the church's central administration.

SOME OFFICIALS

The sources said Curia officials took strong exception to the document and told the Pope a simple reaffirmation of the church's traditional position would be a mistake because millions of Catholics expect some change.

Some Curia officials were reported to have contacted churchmen outside Italy to have them bring pressure on the Pope not to issue the document, the sources said.

The Pope then decided to withdraw the proposed document, even though it apparently already had been given to Vatican language experts to be translated into various languages of the world.

Brewer's Plan:Beer in Can With Bonus

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Brewer Ben Ginter Thursday announced a 10-cent-a-dozen refund on empty beer cans carrying his Tartan Brewing Ltd. label.

Big Drought' Feared In Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario beer drinkers have the weekend to stock up before a possible strike by 2,700 brewery and Brewers Warehousing Co. Ltd. workers.

The employees, members of the International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal and Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America, could legally have gone on strike at 12:01 a.m. this morning.

However, union negotiators returned Thursday to their respective locals for meetings Saturday and Sunday to set a strike deadline.

Harry Simon, regional director of the Canadian Labor Congress who has assisted the union in bargaining, said Thursday the results of the local meetings will not be known until Sunday night or Monday morning.

Alexander Ginter, president of the Tartan Brewing Co. Ltd., said he is doing it to keep the price of canned beer the same as bottled beer, following a dime-a-dozen increase on canned beer ordered by the British Columbia Liquor Control Board.

Mr. Ginter first proposed to put a dime in every can, but this was ruled out by the attorney-general's department.

TWO SPOTS

He said the refunds will be paid at the Tartan warehouse in Vancouver and the brewery in Prince George. The cans will be crushed and sold as scrap metal.

In Victoria, Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said Mr. Ginter "should communicate with the Liquor Control Board in this respect."

"It's a matter that comes under the board's jurisdiction."

NO IDEA

Asked if the refund would be against LCB regulations, Mr. Peterson said "I can't answer in this respect."

He said Mr. Ginter could easily find "other worthy causes" for any excess profit, including donation to the provincial treasury where such contribution could be used for education and welfare.

"No man can make a greater contribution than that."

Canned beer currently sells in government retail liquor stores for $2.73 a dozen, 10 cents more than bottled beer.

Equity Strike SettledBroadway Lights Up Again

NEW YORK (UPI) — Intervention by Mayor John Lindsay ended the three-day theatre strike Thursday and raised the curtain again on 16 Broadway shows and 11 road company productions across the nation.

Actors' Equity Association, which had sought a 5% year contract with a $200 weekly minimum, settled for a three-year contract paying $15 a week now and an additional $5 a week in each of the two succeeding years. The weekly minimum under the contract which expired June 2 was $130.

The crucial issue of whether or not the 15,000-member union should have veto power over all hiring of foreign talent for U.S. productions was settled by providing third-party arbitration of disputes arising from employment of aliens. The old formula under which producers can import up to 30 per cent of casts from abroad was retained.

The Great White Way was glittering again but probably at a higher price. Top theatrical producer David Merrick said it was "very likely" that there would be a hike in ticket prices to offset the cost of the contract. Broadway shows currently charge from $7.50 to $12 for orchestra seats — the highest theatre prices in the world.

"It won't make any difference," said Merrick, who had called both sides to Grace Mansion Wednesday night "to crack their heads together" in the hope of getting a quick settlement.

Collapse of Shipbuilding 'Calls for Federal Probe'

By DON COLLINS

An immediate federal inquiry into Canada's failing shipbuilding industry was suggested Thursday by a Victoria union leader.

Without this and other signs of interest on the part of the government Canada may find itself "a nation surrounded by oceans, but denied of ships," Neil Hindle said.

Mr. Hindle, business manager locally for the International

Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders, also said he wouldn't be surprised to see present federal policy lead to at least a partial shutdown of HMC Dockyard at Esquimalt.

He was commenting on developments at Toronto where a shipbuilders' conference has turned — temporarily at least — into a no-holds-barred attack on government thinking.

Delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Shipbuilding and Ship Repairing Association had been expecting to discuss major problems with defense department officials.

But the officials, invited a month ago, were in Britain to commission the Okanagan, last of three Oliver-class submarines ordered from British shipyards by the Canadian government.

EAST PATRONIZED

Since the lack of shipbuilding contracts for Canadian shipyards was one of the main topics, delegates found plenty of ammunition for their attack.

One was John Wallace, general manager of Yarrow's Ltd. in Victoria, who accused federal authorities of patronizing the shipyard at Esquimalt, Que.

He said the same officials were not concerned about big layoffs on the West Coast.

NOT IN BRITAIN

Of the submarines, Eric Harrington, president of Canadian Vickers Shipyards Ltd. of Montreal, said:

"The damn things should never have been built in Britain."

This is precisely the thinking of Mr. Hindle and the union he represents.

"It is a shame — this colonial spirit in shipbuilding — to think that we should have to have our ships built for us," he said.

Mr. Hindle said he would be very surprised if Burrard shipyard doesn't get the $6,000,000 contract announced Wednesday for replacement of the coast guard vessel Estevan.

Two Streets One Way Starting in September

Yates and Fort streets will open to one-way traffic only starting Sept. 19.

They will be Victoria's first pair of one-way streets in the downtown area, with traffic going west on Yates and east on Fort.

City officials and members of the Victoria Downtown Business Association will meet Tuesday to discuss the system and future planned traffic improvements.

Fall Byelection Due For Esquimalt Seat

A fall byelection will be held in Esquimalt to fill a council seat being vacated by Ald. Gerald Horne, Mayor Ray Bryant said Thursday.

Date of the election will not be known for two or three weeks, as council hopes to have it coincide with a forthcoming regional hospital referendum.

Ald. Horne, a teacher at Esquimalt high school for more than 15 years, will go to Nigeria in the fall.

He will teach there for two years, or after a resignation letter is received by the clerk.

View Royal Given Sewerage Figure

View Royal home-owners would pay about $85 annually for a sewage collection system and another $30 or so for the View Royal share of downstream facilities, according to a study initiated earlier this year by View Royal firm trustees.

Cost of servicing the area would be $1,008,122, according to the engineering firm of Willis, Cunliffe, Tait and Co. Ltd.

A general meeting of View Royal ratepayers will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in the View Royal Community Hall to discuss the firm's report.

Sorry, Dave

Dave Anderson was interrupted during his speech Thursday night by one of his own campaign cars with a loud hailer. It happened about a half-hour later, when he returned to say, "Sorry, Dave."

The ballots were counted Thursday, and Maureen Neashitt is the new Member of Parliament for Victoria.

Maureen, nine years old, is a member of Mrs. Irene Beavis' Grade 4 class at Oaklands elementary school.

She beat opponent Kevin Spielman 21-5 on a platform of fighting pollution and taxing the rich.

A day of campaigning followed by Thursday's balloting was complete right down to voters' list, deputy returning officer, poll clerks and spoiled ballots.

The only major difference was that both candidates were independent; there were no parties involved.

"I wanted to see exactly how an election went," said Mrs. Beavis, 282 Quadra. "I think children should know how a country is governed."

"I explained that it wasn't a popularity contest. You'd have thought it was a real election."

"They're pretty sensible when they start thinking."

Saanich Hasn't Been AskedCordova Bay Mentioned As Hovercraft Port Site

By DON COLLINS

Cordova Bay was mentioned Thursday as the most likely port site for Greater Victoria's forthcoming hovercraft passenger service.

While there has been no official confirmation, one point was made clear:

Oak Bay, where considerable protest has been raised, is out.

'THEIR LOSS'

"The Oak Bay Marina seemed like a very good location but if the council there decides against it, then that's all right with us," said P. B. Jones, president of Pacific Hovercraft Ltd., said Thursday in Vancouver.

"It's their loss — not ours."

He said the Oak Bay Marina had been eliminated as a possible port site simply because his company did not think it was worth the protest that would be raised.

NO COMMENT

He wouldn't, however, comment on the suggestion that his firm was considering Cordova Bay.

At the same time, Mr. Jones said the firm will go ahead with its plans for the B.C. mainland-Vancouver Island service despite the fact that a rival firm is offering opposition.

Inter-Air Travel Ltd. is appealing an Air Transport Board decision that gave Pacific Hovercraft the right to operate a non-stop service across the Strait of Georgia.

END OF AUGUST

The service is expected to be operating by the end of August.

There were reports from more than one source that the hovercraft firm has been making surveys by helicopter of the Cordova Bay region.

One person who said he is aware of this is Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis.

NOT APPROACHED

However, he said the municipality has not been approached by him.

It was also reported unofficially that the plan called for a port that would permit cars to carry passengers along Doumac Avenue to Patricia Bay Highway and along the highway to Victoria.

It would mean the port would have to be located close to Doumac Avenue.

OBSTRUCTIONS?

Although none of this is confirmed, one question seemed important:

Could Saanich be expected to object to a hovercraft port at Oak Bay due to both noise and commercialism factors?

Mayor Curtis said it was impossible to tell at the moment to guess what council would have to say, since the matter has not been raised.

FREE TO TALK

He did, however, expect that there might be protests from some residents.

If the hovercraft people want to talk to us (council) they certainly are free to do so," the mayor said.

He said he had no doubt that there is some legitimate reason for complaint about the noise factor.

There is also the question of open water.

"We have fairly open water and I understand hovercraft experience some difficulty in cross winds," Mayor Curtis said.

He admitted he is no expert himself, but said he has university scientists, engineers, and pollution control experts willing to advise him.

He said the federal government has experts and funds available for research.

The federal government, over the past six years, has made available $260,000,000 for pollution control in Alberta, Ontario and Quebec, he told the meeting.

The reason for the spending in these provinces is that they were the only ones to apply for grants and cost-sharing programs available to all provinces.

He said the federal government will lend two-thirds of funds necessary for sewage disposal plants, at 5% per cent interest over 50 years, and then write off 25 per cent of the loan as a straight grant, on program completion.

Mr. Anderson said almost all of the money set aside for this has been spent in Ontario, only because it applied.

He said the spending in these provinces is that they were the only ones to apply for grants and cost-sharing programs available to all provinces.

The only major difference was that both candidates were independent; there were no parties involved.

"I wanted to see exactly how an election went," said Mrs. Beavis, 282 Quadra. "I think children should know how a country is governed."

Summer began at 1:13 a.m. today.

At that moment the sun reached the Tropic of Cancer, creating the summer solstice.

According to astronomers, today should be the longest day of the year, but the Dominion sunrise-sunset June report shows that Saturday will be as long as today.

The sun will rise at 5:11 a.m. and set at 9:20 p.m. both days.

Liberals Urge B.C. EffortAnti-Pollution Funds*'Just Sitting in Ottawa'

By ARNOLD OLSON

David Anderson, Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate, told 125 people in the View Royal Anglican Church Hall Thursday that federal anti-pollution funds are not even being applied for.

He said although there has been much attention focused upon water pollution by experts, these experts have no idea of the assistance the federal government has for municipalities in pollution control.

He admitted he is no expert himself, but said he has university scientists, engineers, and pollution control experts willing to advise him.

He said industry also may benefit from anti-pollution measures, because 50 per cent of the costs may be written off for tax purposes.

The federal government has also instituted a $73,000,000 research centre for inland waters, with its major work involving pollution, he said.

The problems facing national pollution control, he said, are constitutional ones, in that the federal government can't interfere with inland water, a province's responsibility.

Anderson said the Wednesday announcement that a $60,000,000 government ship will be built on the West Coast measures, because 50 per cent of the costs may be written off for tax purposes.

The federal government has also instituted a $73,000,000 research centre for inland waters, with its major work involving pollution, he said.

The centre offered to operate satellite stations in any province that applied, and Alberta and Quebec were the only ones to do so, he said.

"Money is going to other provinces, for things that should be done here," said Mr. Anderson.

Anderson said the Wednesday announcement that a $60,000,000 government ship will be built on the West Coast was "nothing but contempt for the public — bait."

Mr. Charman swung hard at Liberal opponent David Gross in a speech before 50 people at the White Eagle Hall in James Bay.

He also said the Wednesday announcement that a $60,000,000 government ship will be built on the West Coast

"is a friend of mine, but let's get down to politics," said Mr. Charman.

"This man has failed to speak out for his constituency when he should have done."

Mr. Charman's theme was that the Liberals have avoided embarrassing issues by concentrating on the Trudeau mystique. He called Monday's Trudeau rally in Beacon Hill Park "a political love-in."

"If he had been the leader of my party I would have stood up the next morning and said: 'This is not good enough,'" said Mr. Charman.

He said it was "a remarkable coincidence" that the public address system failed before Mr. Trudeau could answer any questions from the crowd.

Mr. Trudeau had no news for pensioners and no news for the West Coast shipbuilding industry, he said.

Mr. Trudeau called the election because Canada is in economic trouble, Mr. Charman charged. The 30 per cent of Victorians who are on fixed incomes are having a hard time to live, he said.

Mr. Charman traced accelerating inflation to a 30 per cent raise given St. Lawrence Seaway workers two years ago. Industrial wages have risen 45 per cent in five years, he asserted.

"This is why we're finding it tough to get into markets."

Charman ChargesReal Issues ObscuredVictoria Conservative candidate Eric Charman charged Thursday that the Liberal party is perpetrating a "colossal fraud" in obscuring real issues under Trudeau's mystique. He called Monday's Trudeau rally in Beacon Hill Park "a political love-in."

"He's a friend of mine, but let's get down to politics," said Mr. Charman.

"This man has failed to speak out for his constituency when he should have done."

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My heart ached for that young bride who had circles under her pretty eyes because her snoring groom kept her awake until dawn. I'd like to offer a solution that worked for my Aunt Emma and Uncle Wallace. She thought it up herself.

Aunt Emma took strips of muslin and found out that most people snore because their mouths flop open and a piece of loose tissue flutters when the person breathes. She concluded that if she could keep Uncle Wallace's mouth shut the problem would be resolved.

So Aunt Emma took strips of muslin and tied Uncle Wallace's mouth shut every evening just before bedtime. They both are gone now but they were happily married for 45 years.

Not Looking

Dear Ann Landers: I am 22 and have been happily married for three years. My husband will soon be leaving for Vietnam. Recently he asked me if I would remarry if something should happen to him. I am a realistic person and I believe in telling the truth. I replied, "Yes, I think I probably would."

He looked shocked at first and then became angry and shouted, "I wouldn't stand the thought of someone else having you — and living off my insurance in the bargain."

This really hurt me, Ann. It isn't as if I'd be looking for anyone. It's just that since I'm so young and we have no children I don't think I should spend the rest of my life in mourning. Am I wrong to feel this way? Should I have lied to make him feel good? I'd appreciate your opinion. — HONEST BUT GUILTY

Dear H. But G.: Questions that start with "What would you do if —" are best answered this way: "It's impossible to predict what I would do if —, I'd have to wait and see."

Dear Ann Landers: What has become of front doors? I am getting sick and tired of being told when I ring the front bell — "Please go to the back door. I just scrubbed the entrance hall." I always wonder for whom the entrance hall was scrubbed — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, maybe?

Recently I was just about to ring the front bell when the electric doors of the attached garage flew open. "Come in through the garage," a voice ordered. "We just put down new carpeting."

Fall Fashions Subdued

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The brash and noisy fashion industry has begun to quiet down, shape up and behave itself.

The mood was subdued and decorous Wednesday when the New York couture group opened its program of fall fashion previews.

Instead of bounding on to the runway like Olympic candidates, hair flying and arms flailing, elegant mannequins hatted and gloved, chin up and shoulders squared, made the clothes route as ladies of few years ago.

Among the fashions, there were no shrieks for attention with dizzying geometric patterns, nor clashing psychedelic colors; and no bids for headlines with high hemlines or bizarre skin games.

No nudes were good news, according to audience reaction.

"My clothes are for the non-exhibitionist woman," said Jo Copeland when it was her turn to show her collection.

"I don't believe in forcing women into fashion niches." Naturally, the Copeland collection skimmed the body but did not snuggle up to it. Modestly, knee-length costumes were so free of distractions that they were without buttons and bows, and jewels.

A simple buckle closed a suit jacket. Hidden snaps and hooks fastened a starkly-simple coat dress. Sneakily inserted zippers allowed princess line dresses to slither figuratively over the females.

More subtle than a cincher were belts which were often sewn into the dresses. Sometimes, splashed with rhinestones, they served as jewelry for the dress.

Copeland nor Hannah Troy ignored the elegant touches thatnable and diamonds can provide.

Now and then Miss Copeland combined them with huge jewelled cufflinks on sable cuffs, or a dozen or so diamonds buried in the luxury of a sable collar.

Originals indicated that you have to be rich to be in fashion

In a cloth coat anyway. The fashion house presented a line of belted numbers with swingy skirts that cost more than some furs.

Perhaps as rationalization to bewildered, bills-paying husbands, the firm sometimes threw in a jumper dress that matched the coat, and a turtle-necked blouse in color tune with the coat lining.

Montreal Designer Throws Caution Away

By KARIN MOSER

MONTREAL (CP)—A Montreal manufacturer threw caution to the winds this week and presented a collection of multi-colored ski ensembles which may leave solid-toned ski wear far behind on the slopes.

Sizing color combinations of lobster and avocado, brilliant turquoise and shocking pink, started off the press review. Clever innovations with zippers, placed off-centre and at side slashes, were loudly applauded.

Presented by Fairway Skewear of Montreal, most ensembles featured slightly longer jackets for added warmth, cinch belts for neater appearance and mandarin or rajah collars for snug comfort at the neck.

Mr. and Mrs. Stockmann and children, Helga, William, Barbara, Elsie and Ernest, moved to Victoria from Costa Mesa, Calif., where they lived for three years. Prior to going to California, they had lived 12 years in Edmonton, Alta.

The couple and their three elder children are originally from Germany. The younger ones, Elsie and Ernest, were born in Canada.

Mrs. Stockmann pointed out the entire family still thought of Canada as their adopted homeland. They felt more comfortable in Canada.

"We were only in California a few days when we decided we wanted to return to Canada some day," said Mrs. Stockmann.

Mrs. Stockmann decided to take a holiday in Victoria and take time to look around . . . She found the area to her liking.

She recalls that some of the children were upset when they first saw the old place 6916 East Saanich Road. They were afraid it would be too hard to fix up and their parents would end up losing money on it.

"But now they all love it out here in the country," said their mother.

Canada's Flag Stolen?

Victoria's Liberal candidate David Gross was accused Thursday of being an accessory of the Liberal government in the theft and mutilation of Peru's national flag.

Speaking at a Rotary Club Victoria riding all-candidates meeting, George Burnham independent, waved a small red ensign and announced: "This is our national flag."

A well-known local champion of the red ensign, Mr. Burnham said he had discussed the theft of Peru's flag with the RCMP and was instructed in the procedure of laying a formal complaint.

TOLERANCE

Mr. Gross told the meeting of the need for tolerance and reason.

"We have problems in this country — that can hardly be denied — but we have had them before and resolved them by tolerance and reason as we will do again," the candidate said.

Conservative candidate Eric Charman said that it was all "hogwash" to go on talking about such issues as a divided country and the constitution, such as the prime minister did at the "political love-in" held here Monday night.

Everybody wants a unified country and the constitutional crisis could only be solved later at a meeting of all parties and all provinces.

RESEARCH LAGGING

NDP candidate Dr. Harvey Richardson, himself a research scientist, said that Canada was badly lagging in technological research and that science should sit in the Commons to act as liaison between science and government to accelerate study.

The Canadian economy was failing behind, the speaker said, because more capital was flowing out of the country than was coming in thus forcing Canadians to suffer high interest rates.

All In for Stanfield

Sacred Candidate Backs Emergency Measures

Canada's financial difficulties could be solved by a declaration of a state of emergency and use of the Defence of the Realm Act, according to Roy Overton, Esquimalt-Saanich Social Credit candidate.

"Why should we wait for a war to make use of these facilities?" he asked at a Thursday night coffee party at the West Bay Terrace home of Herbert Bruch.

"When World War Two broke out Canada was still flat on her financing of housing, costs back from the depression. Yet almost overnight shipyards and factories began production at an unparalleled rate."

A Social Credit-Creditiste government, said Mr. Overton, would give interest-free loans to all provinces and municipalities for capital construction such as schools, seaports, hospitals, roads, pollution control and sewage systems.

The housing crisis could be solved with a revolving fund for the financing of housing, costs back from the depression. Yet almost overnight shipyards and factories began production at an unparalleled rate."

A majority government can push through laws and legislation," he said, "but a minority government must enact good legislation if it is to have the support of the other parties."

Anderson at Shipyard

Liberal, Hecklers Duel

Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate David Anderson stepped into what the politically astute would consider the lion's den Thursday and emerged with what he said was "a very satisfying" result.

During a lunch-hour meeting with 125 workers at Yarrows Ltd., Mr. Anderson fenced verbally with about five hecklers.

"But I seemed to have the support of the rest of them," he said. "They told the others to keep quiet and let 'the guy' speak."

PICKETS

He said that he believed the hecklers were among pickets who have been attacking the government for what they claim is a lack of help for the failing shipyard industry.

The hecklers told the candidate that he didn't know much about shipyards and he replied that he was seeking the job of member of Parliament, not shipyard executive.

This brought the report that his mother knew more about shipbuilding than he did.

QUITTY POSSIBLE

Mr. Anderson said this was quite possible because of her work in shipyards during the Second World War.

Then the hecklers asked him with what they considered vote-catching bait — the announcement Wednesday that only a West Coast firm could win a $6,000,000 contract to build a Coast Guard vessel.

Why, they asked, was such an announcement made now as the June 25 federal election approaches?

"You are the very people who were around carrying signs at the prime minister's meeting — signs that said to replace the Estevan," Mr. Anderson said.

He pointed out that concessions to West Coast shipyards would only be made until 1970 and that after that it would be a purely national competition for contracts.

Trudeau on Two-Nation Advertisement

Repudiating But Not Apologizing

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Thursday that Conservative Leader Stanfield had publicly rejected the two-nations constitutional concept, but had not done it for the Conservative party.

The Liberal leader told a lunch-time rally crowd of 2,500 in a movie theatre here that confusion still existed over the Conservative policy on the idea of one French nation and one English nation as a basis for Canada's political development.

He challenged Stanfield to clarify the party position before the election.

Trudeau said if Stanfield rejects the two-nations theory in predominantly French-speaking Quebec, "then I can guarantee in Quebec he will obtain the resignations from the Conservative party of a great many candidates who came in order to fight the Liberals who reject special status for Quebec."

The prime minister also said he wanted to make clear that he did not apologize to Stanfield for Liberal newspaper advertisements suggesting that Stanfield supported the two-nation concept.

Trudeau said he merely repudiated the advertisement, taking Stanfield's word against two nations.

"I didn't use the word analogy," he said, an apparent reference to Stanfield's comment earlier accepting Trudeau's "apology."

In light of the repudiation, the Conservative party should now "clearly and unequivocally" reject the two-nation approach and the special status theory that arises from it.

The Liberal party had "rejected it all along" and has been supported in Quebec, he said. Speaking as a Quebecer, Trudeau said the people of Quebec don't want any special status or special treatment different from other provinces.

"We don't feel we have to have a wheelchair or crutches to get along on," the prime minister said.

The two-nations concept was wrong in both a political and a sociological sense. If it was accepted sociologically, this would lead to a political acceptance of the principle.

Special constitutional status for Quebec "just wouldn't work out." If Quebec had power over external affairs, it would be impossible for Quebecers to be in a federal cabinet that decided foreign policy for all of Canada.

Trudeau invited Marcel Faribault, Stanfield's Quebec envoi, to explain how Quebec could have more powers than other provinces and yet share federal power equally with other provinces.

"You can't have more powers for Quebec and then ask to be equal all across the country," Trudeau said.

Ottawa must speak for all Canadians — French, English and others.

"If the Conservatives will say frankly they are not talking about two nations in a sociological sense, then the whole issue will drop away."

Pilot Project Produces 11 Indian Car Graduates

A pilot program, described as the beginning of driver training for B.C. Indians, ended Thursday night with 11 graduates from four Saanich reserves.

The eight-hour course in defensive driving was given by officials of the B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch after discussions between administrative officer Arthur Sharpe, Tsartlip Chief Philip Paul and Rod MacGinnis, a director of the B.C. Indian advisory committee.

The graduates received certificates from Mr. Sharpe who

'Hypnosis Useful For Courtrooms'

REGINA (CP)—A Vancouver psychiatrist who participated in courtroom hypnosis in a Vancouver Island attempted murder trial proposed Thursday a trial program to determine the potential of hypnosis in legal proceedings.

Dr. F. W. Hanley told the annual meeting of the Canadian Psychiatric Association he believes hypnosis to be a useful aid in helping persons with amnesia testify and in other ways.

The trial in which Dr. Hanley participated involved a 40-year-old woman accused of killing her husband with a hammer. Amnesia was raised by the defense and, with the judge's permission, the woman was put under hypnosis, given suggestions to remember the events in full detail and then questioned after being brought out of the hypnotic trance.

Dr. Hanley said she recalled important details bearing on whether premeditation was involved in the killing.

He said the method used in the B.C. trial is one of three in which hypnosis might help obtain sound evidence.

He said he prefers having the witness questioned by the prosecution, defence and judge while actually under hypnosis because it is more likely to bring about full, reliable and accurate testimony.

A third method would involve hypnotizing the witness before the court gets into session, recording the recollections while in a trance and giving the jury a verbal record or a playback of the session.

A 30-month agreement covering 35 employees at Canadian Laundry Supply Co. in Victoria has ended the threat of a strike that would have tested inter-union solidarity.

The workers, who voted 100 per cent in favor of strike action a week ago, voted 78 per cent date Wednesday in favor of accepting a pact that gives hourly wage increases of 36 to 78 cents.

The agreement is retroactive to Nov. 1, providing a 30-cent hike for all classifications in the three year.

The Retail Wholesale and Department Store Union originally sought an hourly increase of 50 cents to $1.25 for workers averaging $1.37 1/2 to $2.14.

The union has been fighting for increased pay for laundry workers since first gaining a foothold in the industry last fall. It recently won settlement on a new contract for workers at Nelson's Launderers and Dry Cleaners Ltd.

Had a strike come about, the union had hoped for co-operation from the Teamsters' Union which represents Canadian Lin-on drivers. The Teamsters had indicated such support would be forthcoming.

More than 20 winners from the Victoria Music Festival piano classes will participate in their final recital of the 1967-68 season at 7 p.m. today in St. Ann's Academy auditorium.

Students of Mrs. Hilda King, Margaret MacCallum, and Wendy McCague, will feature ensemble playing including piano quartet, trio, duet and duo piano.

Guest artists will be soloist Ian Franklin with accompanist Jim Furmstrom, and vocalists Wendy McCague and Joan Harding.

No Support Found For Burning Ban

A move to outlaw backyard rubbish burners found no support Thursday at a meeting of Victoria's lands and fire wardens committee.

Discussion was sparked by a letter from W. C. Kersey, 1255 Fairfield Road, noting it is practically impossible to open doors or windows of a house in the area without it being permeated with odors of burning rubbish.

The letter suggested it might be time the city imposed a general ban.

RAIRD'S VIEW
"Perhaps it has come to the time where we should consider stopping this sort of thing," said Ald. Robert Baird.

The city was becoming bigger and there were more and more apartment buildings, the alderman added.

Another cancellation was for burglary and theft insurance. Figures showed that premiums from June, 1964, to April, 1967, were $3,315, while claims for the same period amounted to $244,91.

Garden Notes

No, No, No!

By M. V. CHEBUT

Dear Mr. Chestnut: Is it true that if you cut down your potato plants when they are in bloom, it will make them potato swell and grow bigger? My potatoes last year were rather small and I would like to do something to make them bigger.

Dear Ches: I have been told that if you trample down the tops of onions all the goodness that was going into the leaves will go into the onions and make them bigger. Do you advise this?

Dear Sir: I bought and planted six good rhubarb roots this spring and they are growing nicely, but my neighbour tells me I should cut off all the leaves this year as fast as they appear to throw all the strength into the roots. Is this correct?

These three letters were received over the past month, and you will notice that they have this in common: All three advocate the destruction of a plant's topgrowth in order to make bigger or stronger roots.

It is evident that these folks—and their helpful neighbors—don't have the foggiest idea as to how plants take in their nourishment. The answer to all three letters is a very decided "no," for no root or tuber or bulb can swell, or get bigger except by virtue of the food passed down to it by the leaves.

A common idea seems to be that the fertilizer or manure in the soil is taken in by the roots and stays there, nourishing them. The topgrowth and leaves are a sort of useless adornment—parasites consuming precious plant food that would otherwise feed the roots. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Whatever goodness there is in the soil is not true plant food at all, but merely the raw material out of which the real nutrients are manufactured in the leaves. The roots gather and take in simple mineral salts in the form of a dilute solution in the soil moisture. This is pumped up in the form of sap through the circulatory system of the plant and into the leaves.

Within the leaf, a very wonderful process takes place. Powered by the rays of the sun, these green food factories combine the minerals sent up by the roots with gases taken from the air to form sugars, starches and other complex substances—the true nutrients for plants and beasts and every living thing.

These nutrients, manufactured within the tissues of the leaf, are circulated through the plant. Some go to make more leaves and branches. Some go into seeds and grain and fruit. And with a shifty eye to the future, the plant banks some of this food—stores it away in the form of bulbs and tubers and fleshy roots.

It should be obvious from this that the only way an onion can swell, a potato get bigger or a rhubarb root plump itself up is with the nutrients manufactured in the leaves of their respective plants. If these food factories are cut off or destroyed in any way, the swelling process below ground must stop.

This is why asparagus is cut for only a three-week period in the spring; thereafter it must be allowed to push its topgrowth up into sunlight. This is why newly planted or transplanted rhubarb shouldn't be cut at all the first year. This is why tulip bulbs shouldn't be dug out of the ground until the green coloring has gone out of the leaves.

It is true that onion tops are bent over—not trampled—but toward the end of the growing season, but this is to STOP the onions from any more swelling so they will ripen and harden for winter storage.

ARTHUR HOPPE Gets Gun Law Passed

Howitzers Harder to Buy

Herewith is another unwritten chapter of history from that unpubished reference work, A History of the World, 1950 to 1968. Its title: The Day Congress Passed a Gun Law.

Most historians feel they can pinpoint the specific event that finally stirred the U.S. Congress into taking action on gun control legislation.

It occurred on May 24, 1968, when a seven-year-old mentally-retarded boy from Passaic, N.J., lobbed a shell from a six-inch howitzer into a joint session on Congress thereby wiping out 17 senators, the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition of 24 lobbyists in the gut-wrenching joint session demands, "that the right of the people to keep and bear six-inch howitzers shall not be infringed."

Telegrams were sent to the association's 1,000,000 members: "THEY ARE TRYING TO TAKE YOUR GUNS AWAY FROM YOU!"

Magazine articles appeared with such titles as "Howitzer Shooting—Good, Clean Fun," "They depicted many dads teaching their freckle-faced sons to shoot howitzers and pointed out that the way to keep our children off the streets was through wholesome outdoor artillery practice.

Outrage was also expressed by the Happy Hours Howitzer Co. of Rock Springs, Conn., which said this "restrictive, discriminatory legislation" would spell "economic disaster" for Rock Springs (pop. 1203).

But the main appeal was to the nervous city dweller. "A man had an inalienable right to defend his home," said an association press release.

"Think how much safer you and your loved ones will be in these riotous times with a six-inch howitzer around the house."

And on this note, the right wing joined in exuberantly, decrying the bill as "a Communist plot to disarm America."

On the other side were three congressmen who had decided not to run for re-election anyway. They suggested that all howitzers be thrown in the ocean, that howitzer shooters take up another hobby and noted statistics showing that for every man who saved his life with a howitzer, 12 had been blown to kingdom come. But they were viewed, of course, as extremist kooks.

After only 27 months of hearings and debates congress courageously passed a compromise bill banning the sale of six-inch howitzers by airmail.

And thus Americans were forced to go on killing each other with only rifles, pistols and six-inch howitzers purchased over the counter.

The association was furious. "A nation that passes a law like this," shouted an angry spokesman, "can not long endure."

It didn't.

HOLLYWOOD, (NANA) — Lee Marvin is one actor who does not want to direct or be a producer. "I'm not interested in having my own company. It's impossible for an actor to make a failure—money-wise."

Lee's thoughts on women who want to get married, and most do: "I don't think they can handle the various problems that are constantly thrown at them, especially the older and supposedly more mature they get. The only way to handle women is to tell them, 'Look, don't give me that.' The louder they shout the harder they fall! We will wake up one morning and find them married to Michael... I asked Marvin, 'Where do you keep your Oscar?' (which he won for Cat Ballou.) 'My agent has it. I kept it on my mantelpiece for a while, but no one would speak to me.'

Lena Horne won't be singing in Patch, described as an "adult" Western, whatever that is. It is Lena's first film in 12 years and I'd be happier if she would sing... When Brando signed with Alberto Grimaldi for his picture in September, he gave his word he would be in Italy in September when the picture begins. We will see.

Meredith Oberon's two adopted children lead the life of Riley, or let's say it's nice to be adopted by millionaires. The kids fly home weekends from school and will be going to Europe with their parents this summer. Merle seems to have given up on the working front.

Jean Hackett and TV-star husband Richard Mulligan have decided this would be a good year to found a family. Joan, who recently starred with James Garner in Support Your Local Sheriff, tells me they are planning to quit New York to settle in Hollywood... Producer Bill Castle showed me his new cigar box with a little gold devil on it—To William with Love. It is the gift of Mia Farrow, his Rosemary's Baby star. Mia gave up her marriage to Frank Sinatra to complete this film. Let's hope it will make her the star she longs to be.

antique system of spelling. More than this, English would then have the great possibility of becoming a true "world language"—for only its backward spelling prevents it from being the easiest language to learn.

But resistance to change is so immense that there is little hope of reform in this area. Bernard Shaw, you may remember, left the bulk of his considerable estate in a trust established to finance spelling reform—but the will was broken in the British courts, when it was decided that his project was impracticable.

But, then, second-graders weren't sitting on the bench when that decision was arrived at.

Trudeau Furious

Ad Inspires Cold Anger

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. (Special) — Prime Minister Trudeau Thursday showed cold anger over a Tory-paid newspaper advertisement claiming that a Liberal vote was a vote for socialism and anti-Christian morality.

Trudeau was shown the advertisement, in a local paper, as he entered the arena here for a rally.

It was the second time that a political advertisement had become an issue in the campaign.

Last week, Conservative leader Robert Stanfield called on Trudeau to repudiate a Liberal-paid newspaper ad claiming that the Tories stand for two nations and special status for Quebec.

At the Edmundston meeting Trudeau read an extract from a local paper, from a full-page advertisement labelled a statement of political views of Jean-Maurice Simard, the Tory candidate in Madawaska-Victoria.

The advertisement refers to Trudeau's Criminal Code bill, which would amend the law on divorce, abortion and homosexuality.

NDP Standing For 'Genuine' Unity—Douglas

MONTREAL (CP) — The New Democratic Party is the one that stands for "genuine national unity" in Canada, leader T. C. Douglas said at a rally Thursday night.

He accused Prime Minister Trudeau of "dividing this country as it has not been divided for a long time."

He said the NDP would bring the country a real national unity founded on "social justice and economic equality." Douglas spoke to a crowd of about 500 in a north-end hockey arena.

He made his brief speech there after touring shopping plazas in the west end of Montreal Island, where the NDP is hoping to elect its first-ever Quebec candidate in the June 25 federal election.

Highway Landing in Zero Visibility

PORT HAWKESBURY, N.S. (CP) — Robert Stanfield took his life in his hands Thursday to make a brief public appearance in the only Nova Scotia territory to go Liberal in the 1965 federal election.

The flight plane which carried the Conservative leader here from Halifax landed on an open section of the Trans-Canada highway at nearby Harve Boucher.

The landing area was supposed to be marked by RCMP patrol cars, but pilot Charlie Barton couldn't find the area in the mist and rain that reduced visibility to almost zero. He and the other five occupants of the twin-engine Piper Aztec flew over the Canso Strait area for 30 minutes, looking for a break in the weather.

The pilot spotted a closed section of the highway and touched down at the crest of a steep hill at 85 miles an hour. He had to fight the controls to keep the plane from sliding off the road into a six-foot ditch before coming to a stop half-way down the 35-degree grade. There were power lines overhead.

Mounties appeared a few minutes later in a patrol car and said: "You landed in the wrong place."

The flight was harrowing all the way from Halifax. Visibility was zero as blinding sheets of rain slashed against the windshield. Tail winds bumped the light aircraft about.

Through it all, Stanfield sat calmly in the rear of the six-seater, with Flora MacDonald, an aide, Julian Porter, another aide, news photographer Colin Price and a Canadian Press reporter also were on board.

The crowd that had been waiting at a high school here for almost two hours gave Stanfield a resounding cheer when he arrived by car.

Organizers estimated that perhaps 5,000 persons were in the auditorium and the adjoining school. There were no seats and at least 2,000 were standing before the stage.

The weather improved and the flight back to Dartmouth, N.S. for an evening rally was without incident.

Seaway Shipping Locked Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Inter-lake shipping in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway system came to a virtual standstill Thursday in advance of a strike of 1,200 seaway workers scheduled for 8 a.m. today.

The locks at Sault Ste. Marie linking Lake Superior and Lake Huron and the Welland Canal linking Lake Ontario and Lake Erie closed to traffic on orders of the seaway authority.

Earlier in the day, the eastern section of the seaway between Montreal and Lake Ontario was closed to new traffic. Only ships already in the section—from the Iroquois locks at the eastern end of Lake Ontario to the St. Lambert locks at Montreal—were permitted to move out in either direction.

VESSELS TRAPPED

When the locks closed to new traffic, 16 ocean-going ships and 14 inland vessels were downbound to Montreal and seven ocean-going and eight inland were upbound for Lake Ontario.

Above the Iroquois locks 58 other ocean-going vessels were trapped for the duration of the strike.

William J. Smith, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, which represents the 1,200 workers, said the position taken by the government had made further negotiation hopeless.

CONTRACT REFUSED

The union had to abide by a vote of its membership refusing the seaway authority's contract offer based on the majority report of a federal conciliation board.

The report recommended two six-per-cent increases compounded over a two-year period. The union was seeking two increases totalling 18 per cent in a two-year contract.

Basic laborers' rate now is $2.77 an hour and the average hourly wage of the 1,200 workers is $3.10.

TRudeau WITH SEAWAY

Prime Minister Trudeau has told the union he considers the Seaway offer "fair and reasonable."

A major complaint by the seaway workers is that their wages do not compare with those of employees of the United States St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation—who do not have the right to strike.

Although some cargo can be moved, grain shipments from the Lakehead, a vital part of Canada's export trade, are shut off. Ore from the mines of the U.S. Midwest through the Lake Superior ports of Duluth and Superior are shut off from the industries of the east. Labrador and Quebec iron cannot be brought up the St. Lawrence River to industrial cities on Lake Ontario.

Free-Wheeling Ended

This was end of line Thursday for two runaway diesel engine units which left Hutchinson, Kan., and ran free at speeds up to 85 miles an hour for 98 miles. Derailing followed official order to close switch where branch line joins main track on Santa Fe line.—(AP)

Officers Strike
In July?

Montreal (CP)—Negotiations between the Canadian Marine Officers Union and the Canadian Lake Carriers Association have broken off, it was announced Thursday.

The dispute poses another threat to Canada's troubled shipping industry.

Gilbert Gauthier, union president, told a news conference that 1,200 marine officers—engineers on some 200 Canadian lake carriers—could be on strike by mid-July.

Drifting Yachtsman Saved

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI) — A Norwegian skipper Thursday night rescued lone French yachtsman Joan de Kat, adrift in the Atlantic in a dinghy after his yacht foundered.

A message from the 10,000-ton bulk carrier Jagona said de Kat was in good health.

When the plane, taking part in a routine bombing exercise, landed safely at nearby Nellis air force base shortly after the air collision.

All of the dead were civilians. Three were children.

The Jagona was guided to the yachtsman by an RAF Shackleton plane, which spotted him drifting about 50 miles off the Irish coast.

The plane dropped another dinghy and canisters containing food and water. De Kat was seen to climb from his own dinghy into the new one and retrieve the canisters.

The Frenchman radioed Tuesday night that his trimaran, Yachida, was breaking up and he was taking to his yellow rubber dinghy.

The message that the yachtsman had been picked up was relayed from the plane to the Northern Air-Sea Rescue centre in Dunfermline, Scotland.

The dinghy was spotted more than 200 miles from de Kat's last radioed position.

Tahsis Project

New School Talks Arranged for July

GOLD RIVER — A meeting will be held in Tahsis July 16 to discuss provision of a new school for the area, it was decided at a Vancouver Island West School Board meeting this week.

The board covers Kyquon, Fair Harbour, Zeballos, Esperanza, Tahsis and Gold River.

District Superintendent P. C. Grant said that if the school was to be ready for September, 1968, a start should be made to provide necessary information for the department of education.

He said collection of material would take about three months and then the department would take about the same time in studying it.

BOARD MEETING

If the plan was approved a referendum would be held in Tahsis. A construction start should be made in January if the proposal was passed by taxpayers to ensure a September opening.

The regular board meeting will also be held in Tahsis on July 16.

The board was told that additional classroom space and a staff room is needed at Tahsis secondary school.

As the present school board administration office in Gold River is a portable classroom, it was felt that could be taken to Tahsis and a new administration office purchased.

MONEY REQUEST

However when a request for money for an office was made, the department of education replied: "Since the opening of the new secondary school in Gold River, this is now one of the best-off areas in Canada and should not be requesting anything more."

The department said there was an allowance for an office but it would not be approved. It suggested the office staff could move into the foyer of the new school.

"It would be the worst mistake the school board ever made to even consider moving into the foyer of the school," said Mr. Grant.

Trustees agreed to send the classroom to Tahsis and to rent administrative space from Atco Industries which quoted a rental figure of $335. 80 per cent of which would be applied to the purchase price if the board decided to buy the premises later.

The board also discussed kindergarten accommodation at Tahsis. The Legion, it was told, is raising its rent to $200 for the class which uses Legion accommodation two hours daily, except weekends.

E. R. Hewson, secretary-treasurer, will go to Tahsis with Trustee Jim Seely to investigate using the Shantymen Church.

Trustees agreed with Stan Jones of Zeballos that children in Esperanza are not receiving a reasonable education in the present one-room school. It was decided to close the school and take the children to Tahsis by boat each day.

Board Alters Homes Policy

GOLD RIVER — Vancouver Island West School Board has declined to give teachers a guarantee that its new housing policy will be on a continuing basis.

The teachers' request was submitted at a board meeting this week.

Trustee Stan Jones of Zeballos said he thought the teachers should have faith in the board. Other members agreed.

The board is to discontinue its housing rental plan at $1.

It has arranged a second mortgage scheme, at 10 per cent, to help teachers who want to buy their own homes.

Retiring teacher Frances Wall was presented with a Cowichan Indian sweater.

Kinsmen Winners

PARKSVILLE — The Kinsmen Club here has been awarded the Club of the Year trophy for the upper Vancouver Island zone.

The award is made to the club which maintains the most active interest in zone affairs and has the best sustained record of contribution to its community.

Members are waiting for equipment for the children's playground facilities at the community park, for which they have pledged $1,500.

School teacher Richard Gregory said: "They Indians are an important part of our economy."

"Without them the crop could not be lifted."

"We want to let them know they are wanted and that society is not passing them by."

Sunny Laughs

COWICHAN—Laughter mixed with sunshine Thursday morning when pupils and mothers of the Indian mothers' co-op nursery held their annual picnic at the home of Mrs. Anne Johnny on Boys Road to wind up the 1967-68 session of the nursery school.

The nursery school, with an enrollment of 21 children during the past period, will re-open in September.

U.S. Tries to Help Indians

DUNCAN — The U.S. government is making strong efforts to improve conditions for berry-picking B.C. Indians whose way of life is being studied by two migratory officials from Washington State.

School teacher Richard Gregory said: "They Indians are an important part of our economy."

"Without them the crop could not be lifted."

"We want to let them know they are wanted and that society is not passing them by."

Mr. Gregory and Jerome Altheide, director of the Payal-up-Stuck Valley migrant program stopped at Duncan Wednesday to interview Cowichan Indians.

Mr. Gregory said the program embraces not only children but it is also designed to train adults to overcome their problems.

The children's school program serves two purposes.

"It releases berry-picking parents from the worry about their children and it enriches the youngsters' education."

"Our children's program also includes field trips to acquaint them with different phases of society."

Mr. Gregory said the day school program starts at the beginning of July. Adult education is provided in the evenings. The migrant ministry is an additional aid to uplift the workers socially and spiritually.

He said the new scheme assists berry pickers of different races including Indians, Negroes, Spanish-Americans and white people.

"Our team has come to Canada for the first time to search out assistance from officials, educators, and the Indians themselves, for the migrant school program."

Mr. Altheide said meetings have been held at Vancouver, Saanich, Duncan and Powell River.

"We just want to talk to the people in these different areas to see what they want us to do."

Mr. Altheide said his program will reduce our standard of living even further."

Discussing Canadian society, Mr. Cameron stated that "the Canadian welfare department has said that 20 per cent of all Indians live below the poverty line."

"We should have a more realistic evaluation of our society."

Staff Needed

Health Work Increasing

NORTH COWICHAN—Additional staff is urgently needed for the central Vancouver Island Union Board of Health to keep up with the increasing work load, said Ald. Margaret Robertson Wednesday.

Ald. Robertson is president of the board.

She said during the last board meeting at Lake Cowichan, A. E. Hill, in his sanitation report, told us that inspections have increased from 294 during the first five months last year to 684 during the same period this year.

Without additional staff it is impossible to cover adequately restaurants, schools, hairdressing establishments and carry out many other routine inspections.

Ald. Robertson stressed that the lack of a sufficient number of dentists within the board's area is felt particularly at Nanaimo where people have to wait as long as six months for an appointment.

Only 22 dentists work in the entire area with a total population of 165,000 people.

She said a recent survey done in Kelowna shows that where the water is not fluoridated there is three times as much dental decay in comparison to those children drinking fluoridated water."

Age Makes Its Mark

NANAIMO — Who says the younger generation has all the power on the athletic field?

It just wasn't so at the recent Brechin elementary school sports day in Nanaimo, where the teachers beat the senior boys in the 440-yard relay race.

No one knows exactly what happened, but the senior boys have vowed that such an incident will never happen again.

Swim Classes

PARKSVILLE — Registrations will be taken on Saturday, between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the community park, for children's swim classes sponsored by Parksville Recreation Commission. Classes will start on July 2.

Softball Contest

Mill Bay Girls Capture Title

MILL BAY — For the second consecutive year, Mill Bay elementary school has won the girls' softball tournament in the Cowichan district.

Teams composed of grades 6 and 7 girls took part in the inter-school competition.

$5,000 Raised

Lake Cowichan — Mrs. Mel Miller, acting secretary of the Lake Cowichan Girl Guide committee, reported Thursday the district Guide association's walkathon realized $5,500.

The walk was sponsored by the Guides recently to raise money for the Kiwanis Children's Camp for the Handicapped, which is nearing completion at Lake Cowichan.

Boots Stolen From Store

NANAIMO — There were two break-ins in Nanaimo over the weekend.

Buckerfield's Ltd., on Selby Street, was entered by thieves who made off with about $500 worth of riding boots, bridge chain, and other items.

In the second, thieves broke in through a rear door at the Harewood Community Hall and stole some change from a soft drink machine.

At Cedar, Wellington

Nanaimo Wants School Action

NANAIMO — The school board will call for quick approval of major construction projects in the school district when it meets department of education officials Monday.

The new Cedar Junior Secondary School, and additions to Wellington school, must be given the go-ahead. By getting working drawings made up, the board said on Wednesday.

Burdett Construction Company of Vancouver has been granted a contract to build additions to Fairview, Park Avenue, Seaview and Chase River schools at a cost of $150,000.

The Cedar school will accommodate about 300 pupils and the additions to Wellington school would double its capacity to 600. The board wants to have the two projects ready by 1969.

Mr. Marchand succeeded in a separate bill, Mr. Cameron added. "The NDP opposes this bill because it attempts to destroy Canadian unionism."

"Separate areas of negotiations will fragment the wage scales across the country and it can't be every pleased to see Mr. Zorkin, in turn, described as 'just society' as 'windy aspirations of my Liberal opponent.'

Conservative candidate Jeffrey Brock told the meeting that this riding was a straight fight between the socialists and the Conservatives. Mr. Cameron replied that; "I wish I could return the compliment, but I can't do it."

Alberni ValleyGrants Announced

POR ALBERNI — The Community Arts Council of the Alberni Valley has ratified the recommendations of its grants committee and named those organizations which will benefit.

The grants are made possible under the centralized cultural fund program of the provincial government and the Community Arts Council. This is the first year such grants have been made but it is expected that the program will continue because of the nature of the provincial fund investment, council president, Dick Christie, indicated.

Receiving the grants will be the Alberni Valley Arts Festival committee, $300; Echo Players Drama Group, $100; Alberni Valley Art Group, $100; Alberni Valley Pottery Group, $120;

"To make local councils more meaningful, it is important that participating groups maintain association with the council through their membership and voting privilege."

In announcing the grants Mr. Christie expressed his delight on behalf of the grants committee that this money is available and hoped it would mean the groups could make even greater progress and become even more meaningful to the rest of the community.

"It would appear the provincial government is using the facilities of local arts councils to aid it as the contact between the community and its own departments that are involved with the arts," Mr. Christie said.

The council also heard a report from the festival committee which indicated a profit from the May event. Considerable discussion centred around the festival, its future and the various advantages and problems related to the new facilities at Echo Centre, used this year for the first time.

A wide range of other topics considered at the meeting included possibility of a summer arts school, an events calendar, formation of a nominating committee and the sponsorship of a full music program.

Scouts Thanked By Chamber

LAKE COWICHAN — announced the chamber will have a special guest at the September general meeting.

A representative of B.C. Forest Products Ltd., will speak about the future of the forest industry in the Cowichan Valley.

Wally Russell, of Lake Cowichan, chairman of the 2nd Lake Cowichan Venture Group will be asked to thank his members for the clean-up job they carried out recently around the regional district sign at the entrance to the village.

District scout, Len Baker, of Caycuse will be asked to thank his scouts for cleaning up following the Breakfast on the Town, sponsored by Lake Cowichan chamber at the weekend.

Only executive meetings will be held by chamber directors during July and August. Chamber president Neil Laforge services.

On Mainland

VANCOUVER (CP) — Burnaby mayor Alan Emmott says the 22 Lower Mainland communities could be welded into one great city within five years by getting rid of "parochial" municipal politicians who think only of their own communities. Mayor Emmott also said mergers could reduce taxes through elimination of duplicated ser-

North CowichanPlaying Fields Critics Blasted by Mayor

NORTH COWICHAN — Mayor Donald Morton has warned that critics within the municipality can easily create dissension and scuttle the proposed $800,000 recreational bylaw which goes to a vote at the end of September.

The bylaw deals with a covered swimming pool and a community centre.

The mayor referred to members of the Field Sports Association who complained about poor playing fields to the joint recreation commissions.

Ald. Dennis Hogan charged:

"It was a most uninformed decision that came to that meeting."

"They don't seem to realize how much work and effort the municipality has done to provide proper playing fields."

TWO YEARS

He said during the past two years the municipality has spent $50,000 in purchasing land for future playing fields and last year $10,000 were spent in improvement of playing fields.

Ald. Hogan said: "Any dissension now will be dangerous for the bylaw."

Ald. John Cannon proposed that the recreation director should meet with various groups to clear up misunderstandings which "could prove disastrous to recreation in the Duncan and the south end of the North Cowichan municipality."

"It is up to the commission to leave no stone unturned to explain to the different groups what is happening and the problems that have to be solved."

MUCH MONEY

Mayor Morton noted the softball group stressed it had nothing to do with the Field Sports Association's strong criticism of playing fields.

Representatives of the softball association told the mayor the fields had never been so good.

Mayor Morton emphasized a great amount of money has been spent on out-door recreation.

The department of transport has approved a causeway and a logging ramp at the Crofton waterfront, but council will inform the provincial department of lands that it definitely is against a permanent structure.

Application to the federal department of transport was made by H. B. Elsworth, K. H. Castle and J. T. Thakray who are engaged in removing an old, large slag pile left behind about half a century ago when the Crofton smelter ceased operation.

Department of transport engineer, J. N. Ballinger stated the department has no alternative but to approve the causeway and the loading ramp because it poses significant interference of navigation, proven by the fact it had been in place for more than five years.

Ald. Ballinger told council:

"The act does not include any authority dealing with land use, pollution or unsightly operations."

The authority the act conveys to the department of transport is limited to the public right of navigation, he said.

Ald. Cannon said: "They (slag pile removing firm) said they would not extend their operation and what they plan is contrary to what they told council."

Ald. Gerry Smith said that, except for a few residents living near the causeway, Crofton ratepayers did not generally oppose the structure because the slag pile was to be removed by barges.

Farewell Present Given by Art Group

QUALICUM BEACH — Seventeen members of the original group of De Cosmo's Fine Arts visited the home of Mrs. J. Vowel at 123 Sunningdale West where they first met for sketching and silk-screen classes.

Mr. and Mrs. George Malcolm, who are moving to Cordova Bay, Victoria, were presented with a ceramic coffee set and silver spoon made at Three Pine Studio of Cassandra Van Comhuds where some of the group work in ceramics.

Mrs. Bab Moore of Nanaimo reported about the formation of an arts council following her attendance at a recreation board workshop in Port Alberni.

Special guest was Mrs. Edith Carier, Island artist who recently exhibited work at Port Alberni's Echo 67. She lives at Mill Road, Qualicum Beach.

Guides, Rangers and Brownies of Arrowsmith district, which includes Qualicum, Parksville, Nanaimo and Comox, met at Coombs fair ground for the start of a walkathon in aid of the camp for special children at Shawnigan Lake.

There were about 200 marchers. Seven children go to the camp from the area at a cost of $278 a child.

A formal presentation of the money raised will take place at the Guide summer camp at Rathkeevor Beach. It will be the last official act by Commissioner Mrs. A. W. Johnston of Parksville before she retires.

You're in Wrong Place, Police Told Stanfield

Highway Landing in Zero Visibility

PORT HAWKSBUCKY, N.S. (CP) — Robert Stanfield took his life in his hands Thursday to make a brief public appearance in the only Nova Scotia territory to go Liberal in the 1965 federal election.

The light plane which carried the Conservative leader here from Halifax landed on an open section of the Trans-Canada highway at nearby Harve Boucher.

The landing area was supposed to be marked by RCMP patrol cars, but pilot Charlie Barton couldn't find the area in the mist and rain that reduced visibility to almost zero. He and the other five occupants of the twin-engine Piper Aztec flew over the Canso Strait area for 30 minutes, looking for a break in the weather.

The pilot spotted a closed section of the highway and touched down at the crest of a steep hill at 85 miles an hour. He had to fight the controls to keep the plane from sliding off the road into a six-foot ditch before coming to a stop half-way down the 35-degree grade. There were power lines overhead.

Mounties appeared a few minutes later in a patrol car and said: "You landed in the wrong place."

The flight was harrowing all the way from Halifax. Visibility was zero as blinding sheets of rain slashed against the windshield. Tail winds bumped the light aircraft about.

Through it all, Stanfield sat calmly in the rear of the six-seater, with Flora MacDonald, an aide, Julian Porter, another aide, news photographer Colin Price and a Canadian Press reporter also were on board.

The crowd that had been waiting at a high school here for almost two hours gave Stanfield a resounding cheer when he arrived by car. Organizers estimated that perhaps 5,000 persons were in the auditorium and the adjoining school. There were no seats and at least 2,000 were standing before the stage.

The weather improved and

Port Hawkesbury is in Cape Breton Highlands-Canso riding, part of which was represented in the last parliament by Health Minister MacEachen. It and a neighboring riding were the only Nova Scotia seats to go Liberal in 1965.

Trudeau Furious

Ad Inspires Cold Anger

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. (Special) — Prime Minister Trudeau Thursday showed cold anger over a Tory-paid newspaper advertisement claiming that a Liberal vote was a vote for socialism and anti-Christian morality.

Trudeau was shown a advertisement in a local paper, as he entered the arena here for a rally.

It was the second time that a political advertisement had become an issue in the campaign.

Last week, Conservative leader Robert Stanfield called on Trudeau to repudiate a Liberal-paid newspaper ad claiming that the Tories stand for two nations and special status for Quebec.

At the Edmundston meeting Trudeau read an extract from a local paper, from a full-page advertisement labelled a statement of political views of Jean-Maurice Simard, the Tory candidate in Madawaska-Victoria.

The advertisement refers to Trudeau's Criminal Code bill, which would amend the law on divorce, abortion and homosexuality.

B.C. Won't Lead Nurses 'by Ear'

KIMBERLEY (CP) — Premier Bennett said Thursday the provincial government will not automatically lead British Columbia nurses "by the ear" back to work if they go on strike.

Mr. Bennett's statement followed a strong hint by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson that the new Mediation Commission Act would be used to break any strike by the nurses.

Seaway Shipping Locked Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Inter-lake shipping in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway system came to a virtual standstill Thursday in advance of a strike of 1,200 seaway workers scheduled for 8 a.m. today.

The locks at Sault Ste. Marie linking Lake Superior and Lake Huron and the Welland Canal linking Lake Ontario and Lake Erie closed to traffic on orders of the seaway authority. Earlier in the day, the eastern section of the seaway between Montreal and Lake Ontario was closed to new traffic. Only ships already in the section—from the Iroquois locks at the eastern end of Lake Ontario to the St. Lambert locks at Montreal—were permitted to move out in either direction.

VESSELS TRAPPED

When the locks closed to new traffic, 16 ocean-going ships and 14 inland vessels were bound for Montreal and seven ocean-going and eight inland were upbound for Lake Ontario.

Above the Iroquois locks 58 other ocean-going vessels were trapped for the duration of the strike.

William J. Smith, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, which represents the 1,200 workers, said the position taken by the government had made further negotiation hopeless.

CONTRACT REFUSED

The union had to abide by a vote of its membership refusing the seaway authority's contract offer based on the majority report of a federal conciliation board.

The report recommended two six-per-cent increases compounded over a two-year period. The union was seeking two increases totaling 18 per cent in a two-year contract.

Basic laborers' rate now is $2.77 an hour and the average hourly wage of the 1,200 workers is $3.10.

TRudeau WITH SEAWAY

Prime Minister Trudeau has told the union he considers the Seaway offer "fair and reasonable."

A major complaint by the seaway workers is that their wages do not compare with those of employees of the United States St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation—who do not have the right to strike.

Although some cargo can be moved, grain shipments from the Lakehead, a vital part of Canada's export trade, are shut off. Ore from the mines of the U.S. Midwest through the Lake Superior ports of Duluth and Superior are shut off from the industries of the east. Labrador and Quebec iron cannot be brought up the St. Lawrence River to industrial cities on Lake Ontario.

Free-Wheeling Ended

Officers Strike In July?

MONTREAL (CP) — Negotiations between the Canadian Marine Officers Union and the Canadian Lake Carriers Association have broken off, it was announced Thursday.

The dispute poses another strike threat to Canada's troubled shipping industry.

Gilbert Gauthier, union president, told a news conference that 1,500 marine officers—engineers on some 200 Canadian tankers—could be on strike by mid-July.

The top negotiator for the International Woodworkers of America said late Thursday night that talks aimed at preventing a crippling strike in B.C.'s forests will continue "only so long as there is progress being made."

This statement by IWA regional president Jack Moore of Vancouver was taken to mean that the long, hard rounds of negotiations between the union and companies had not reached a standstill stage.

However, Mr. Moore and other negotiators were Picked Up by Freighter

PLYMOUTH, England (Reuters) — A Norwegian freighter Thursday night rescued lone French yachtsman Joan de Kat.

A dredge in the Atlantic in a drizzle after his yacht foundered.

A message from the 10,000-ton bulk carrier Jagana said de Kat was in good health.

The Jagana was guided to the yachtsman by an RAF Shackleton plane, which spotted him drifting about 500 miles off the Irish coast.

The plane dropped another dinghy and canisters containing food and water. De Kat was seen to climb from his own dinghy into the new one and retrieve the canisters.

The message that the yachtsman had been picked up was relayed from the plane to the Northern Air-Sea Rescue centre in Dunfermline, Scotland.

Collapse of Shipbuilding 'Calls for Federal Probe'

By DON COLLINS

An immediate federal inquiry into Canada's failing shipbuilding industry was suggested Thursday by a Victoria union leader.

Without this and other signs of interest on the part of the government Canada may find itself "a nation surrounded by oceans, but denied of ships," Neil Hindle said.

Mr. Hindle, business manager locally for the International

Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders, also said he wouldn't be surprised to see present federal policy lead to at least a partial shutdown of HMC Dockyard at Esquimalt.

BITTER ATTACK

He was commenting on developments at Toronto where a shipbuilders' conference has turned — temporarily at least — into a no-holds barred attack on government thinking.

Delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Shipbuilding and Ship Repairing Association had been expecting to discuss major problems with defense department officials.

But the officials, invited a month ago, were in Britain to commission the Okanagan, last of three Oberon-class submarines ordered from British shipyards by the Canadian government.

NOT PATRONIZED

Since the lack of shipbuilding contracts for Canadian shipyards was one of the main topics, delegates found plenty of ammunition for their attack.

One was John Wallace, general manager of Yarrow's Ltd. in Victoria, who accused federal authorities of patronizing the shipyard at Lauzon, Que.

He said the same officials were not concerned about big layoffs on the West Coast.

NOT IN BRITAIN

Of the submarines, Eric Harrington, president of Canadian Vickers Shipyards Ltd. of Montreal, said:

"The damn things should never have been built in Britain."

This is precisely the thinking of Mr. Hindle and the union he represents.

"It is a shame — this colonial spirit in shipbuilding — to think that we should have to have our ships built for us," he said.

Mr. Hindle said he would be surprised if Barrard shipyard doesn't get the $6,000,000 contract announced Wednesday for replacement of the coast guard vessel, Estevan.

Two Streets One Way Starting in September

Yates and Fort streets will open to one-way traffic only starting Sept. 19.

They will be Victoria's first pair of one-way streets in the downtown area, with traffic going west on Yates and east on Fort.

City officials and members of the Victoria Downtown Business Association will meet Tuesday to discuss the system and future planned traffic improvements.

Fall Byelection Due For Esquimalt Seat

A fall byelection will be held in Esquimalt to fill a council seat being vacated by Ald. Gerald Horne, Mayor Ray Bryant said Thursday.

Date of the election will not be known for two or three weeks, as council hopes to have it coincide with a forthcoming regional hospital referendum.

Ald. Horne, a teacher at Esquimalt high school for more than 15 years, will go to Nigeria in the fall.

He will teach there for two years as part of Canada's program to aid underdeveloped countries.

He was elected to a two-year term on council last December.

Mayor Bryant said no date had been set for the hospital referendum, but he hopes to save taxpayers inconvenience and cost if the two votes can coincide.

According to the Municipal Act a nomination to fill a council vacancy shall be held within 30 to 45 days of the vacancy, or after a resignation is received by the clerk.

View Royal Given Sewerage Figure

View Royal home-owners would pay about $85 annually for a sewage collection system and another $30 or so for the View Royal share of downstream facilities, according to a study initiated earlier this year by View Royal fire trustees.

Cost of servicing the area would be $1,008,132, according to the engineering firm of Willis, Currie, Tait and Co. Ltd.

A general meeting of View Royal ratepayers will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in the View Royal Community Hall to discuss the firm's report.

Saanich Hasn't Been AskedCordova Bay Mentioned As Hovercraft Port Site

By DON COLLINS

Cordova Bay was mentioned Thursday as the most likely port site for Greater Victoria's forthcoming hovercraft passenger service.

While there has been no official confirmation, one point was made clear:

Oak Bay, where considerable protest has been raised, is out.

'THEIR LOSS'

"The Oak Bay Marina seemed like a very good location, but if the council there decides against it, then that's all right with us," said P. B. Jones, president of Pacific Hovercraft Ltd., said Thursday in Vancouver.

"It's their loss — not ours."

He said the Oak Bay Marina had been eliminated as a possible port site simply because his company did not think it was worth the protest that would be raised.

NO COMMENT

He wouldn't, however, comment on the suggestion that his firm was considering Cordova Bay.

At the same time, Mr. Jones said the firm will go ahead with its plans for the B.C. mainland Vancouver Island service despite the fact that a rival firm is offering opposition.

Inter-Air Travel Ltd. is appealing an Air Transport Board decision that gave Pacific Hovercraft the right to operate daily service across the Strait of Georgia.

END OF AUGUST

The service is expected to be operating by the end of August.

There were reports from more than one source that the hovercraft firm has been making surveys by helicopter of the Cordova Bay region.

One person who said he is aware of this is Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis.

NOT APPROACHED

However, he said the municipality has not been approached by the firm.

It was also reported unofficially that the plan called for a port that would permit craft to carry passengers along Doumac Avenue to Patricia Bay Highway and along the highway to Victoria.

It would mean the port would have to be located close to Doumac Avenue.

OBJECTIONS?

Although none of this is confirmed, one question seemed important:

Could Saanich be expected to object to a hovercraft port as Oak Bay did because of both noise and commercialism factors?

Mayor Curtis said it was impossible at the moment to guess what council would have to say, since the matter has not been raised.

FREE TO TALK

He did, however, expect that there might be protests from some residents.

"If the hovercraft people want to talk to us (council) they certainly are free to do so," the mayor said.

He said he had no doubt that there is some legitimate reason for complaint about the noise factor.

There is also the question of open water.

"We have fairly open water and I understand hovercraft experience some difficulty in cross winds," Mayor Curtis said.

Blazes Damage House and Store

By BOB PETHICK

Saanich firemen were busy Thursday as two fires damaged parts of a house and a store.

Causes of the fires at Lakeside Lucky Dollar Market, 3349 Quadra, at 7:22 p.m. and the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ryan, 764 Lily at 11:56 a.m. are being investigated by the fire marshal's office and Saanich detectives.

It was the second fire in the Ryan house in six days.

Damage to the store and an adjoining house used as a storeroom was between $4,000 and $5,000. There was no estimate on damage to stock which was covered by insurance.

Mrs. L. J. Thor, 1287 Derby, co-proprietor, and her helper, Lillian Soyley, 3301 Quadra, were alone in the market when the fire started.

"I went to the rear of the store and smelled smoke. When I opened the basement door there was heavy smoke and I could hear the flames. Something blew up while I was phoning. It might have been the fuse box," said Mrs. Thor.

The Lily Street fire was almost identical to the fire which damaged the house last Friday. Saanich fire chief Joseph Sutherland said. "We are at a loss to explain where the highly combustible fuel came from or how the fire began." The fire started in a pile of lumber in the basement.

Hurt in Crash

Charman Charges:Real Issues Obscured

Victoria Conservative candidate Eric Charman charged Thursday that the Liberal party is perpetrating "a colossal fraud" in obscuring election issues under Trudeau's mystique.

He also said the Wednesday announcement that a $6,000,000 government ship will be built on the West Coast measures, because 50 per cent of the costs may be written off for tax purposes.

The federal government has also instituted a $23,000,000 research centre for inland waters, with its major work involving pollution, he said.

The centre offered to operate satellite stations in any province that applied, and Alberta and Quebec were the only ones to do so, he said.

"Money is going to other provinces, or things that should be done here," said Mr. Anderson.

He added that the federal government has experts and funds available for research.

The federal government, over the past six years, has made available $200,000,000 for pollution control in Alberta, Ontario and Quebec, he told the meeting.

The reason for the spending in these provinces is that they were the only ones to apply for grants and cost-sharing programs available to all provinces.

Mr. Charman said almost all of the money set aside for this has been spent in Ontario, only because it applied.

He admitted he is no expert himself, but said he has university scientists, engineers, and pollution control experts willing to advise him.

He added that the federal government will lend two-thirds of funds necessary for sewage disposal plants, at 5% per cent interest over 50 years, and then write off 25 per cent of the loan as a straight grant, on program completion.

Mr. Anderson said almost all of the money set aside for this has been spent in Ontario, only because it applied.

The only major difference was that both candidates were independents; there were no parties involved.

"I wanted to see exactly how an election went," said Mrs. Beavis, 2622 Quadra. "I think children should know how a country is governed."

"I explained that it wasn't a popularity contest. You'd have thought it was a real election."

"They're pretty sensible when they start thinking."

New Victoria 'MP'Would Tax Rich

The ballots were counted Thursday, and Maureen Nesbitt is the new Member of Parliament for Victoria.

Maureen, nine years old, is a member of Mrs. Irene Beavis' Grade 4 class at Oaklands elementary school.

She beat opponent Kevin Spelman 21-5 on a platform of fighting pollution and taxing the rich.

A day of campaigning followed by Thursday's balloting was complete with down to voters' list, deputy returning officer, poll clerks, and spotted ballots.

The only major difference was that both candidates were independents; there were no parties involved.

"I wanted to see exactly how an election went," said Mrs. Beavis, 2622 Quadra. "I think children should know how a country is governed."

"I explained that it wasn't a popularity contest. You'd have thought it was a real election."

"They're pretty sensible when they start thinking."

Mr. Trudeau had no news for pensioners and no news for the West Coast shipbuilding industry, he said.

Mr. Trudeau called the election because Canada is in economic trouble, Mr. Charman charged. The 30 per cent of Victorians who are on fixed incomes are having a hard time to live, he said.

Mr. Charman traced accelerating inflation to a 30 per cent raise given St. Lawrence Seaway workers two years ago. Industrial wages have risen 45 per cent in five years, he asserted.

"This is why we're finding it tough to get into markets."

Liberal Urges B.C. EffortAnti-Pollution Funds 'Just Sitting in Ottawa'

By ARNOLD OLSON

David Anderson, Esquimalt Liberal candidate, told 125 people in the View Royal Anglican Church Hall Thursday that federal anti-pollution funds are not even being applied for.

He said although there has been much attention focussed upon water pollution by experts, these experts "have no idea of the assistance the federal government has for municipalities in pollution control."

He admitted he is no expert himself, but said he has university scientists, engineers, and pollution control experts willing to advise him.

He added that the federal government has experts and funds available for research.

Victoria Conservative candidate Eric Charman charged Thursday that the Liberal party is perpetrating a "colossal fraud" in obscuring election issues under Trudeau.

He also said the Wednesday announcement that a $6,000,000 government ship will be built on the West Coast was "nothing but contempt for the public — bait."

Mr. Charman swung hard at Liberal opponent David Gross in a speech before 50 people at the White Eagle Hall in James Bay.

"He's a friend of mine, but let's get down to politics," said Mr. Charman.

"This man has failed to speak out for his constituency when he should have done."

Mr. Charman's theme was that the Liberals have avoided embarrassing issues by concentrating on the Trudeau mystique. He called Monday's Trudeau rally in Beacon Hill Park "a political love-in."

"He had been the leader of my party I would have stood up the next morning and said: 'This is not good enough,'" said Mr. Charman.

He said it was "a remarkable coincidence" that the public address system failed before Mr. Trudeau could answer any questions from the crowd.

New Victoria 'MP' Would Tax Rich

The ballots were counted Thursday, and Maureen Nesbitt is the new Member of Parliament for Victoria.

Maureen, nine years old, is a member of Mrs. Irene Beavis' Grade 4 class at Oaklands elementary school.

She beat opponent Kevin Spelman 215 to a platform of fighting pollution and taxing the rich.

A day of campaigning followed by Thursday's balloting was complete right down to voters' list, deputy returning officer, poll clerks and spoiled ballots.

The only major difference was that both candidates were independents; there were no parties involved.

"I wanted to see exactly how an election went," said Mr. Beavis.

"I explained that it wasn't a popularity contest. You'd have thought it was a real election."

"They're pretty sensible when they start thinking."

Mr. Trudeau had no news for pensioners and no news for the West Coast shipbuilding industry, he said.

Mr. Trudeau called the election because Canada is in economic trouble, Mr. Charman charged. The 30 per cent of Victorians who are on fixed incomes are having a hard time to live, he said.

Mr. Charman traced accelerating inflation to a 30 per cent raise given St. Lawrence Seaway workers two years ago. Industrial wages have risen 45 per cent in five years, he asserted.

"This is why we're finding it tough to get into markets."
